Britain Also Speculates. What Use Is Science? Buying Whisky No Crime. Preventing Influenza.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

SPECULATION in the Ford British Company, called "Ford, Ltd.," is almost as active in Britain as it is here. The stock, sold originally to the British by Ford at 20 shillings a share, now sells at "75 shillings premium," which means 95 shillings a share.

The British probably have heard how Senator Couzens, of Detroit, put about $2,000 in the original Ford company and took out $30,000,000 in cash. Such things don't usually happen twice.

"WHAT is the use of science?" is sometimes asked.

A geologist answered a British coal mine owner, "You have wasted fortunes boring for coal where there was none. I could have told you to stop and save your money whenever you came to a certain formation in the earth. Never any coal below that formation. It came before the coal was formed."

A GATHERING of scientists in New York yesterday was told by an expert of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company that "more than 500,000 children in the United States have been saved from orphanages because science has extended the span of human life."

To keep alive the fathers and mothers, until the children are grown, is certainly useful work. And science fights superstition, "the poison of the mind," as the actinic rays fight streptococci, in the blood stream.

JUDGE KIRKPATRICK of the United States court, says there is nothing illegal about BUYING bootleg whisky. To SELL it is an offense, and to have it transported is an offense. But merely to buy it is not illegal.

This protects customers of the bootleggers. They have no difficulty in protecting themselves, sometimes with bribes, sometimes with sawed off shotguns.

MR. DURANT paid $25,000 for "a way to enforce prohibition" that would NOT enforce prohibition. Make it a felony to buy whisky, bootleggers will lose their customers, and that will help prohibition.

Simply showing lack of respect for the Constitution does not worry respectability much. But committing a felony, with the prospect of going to jail, plus the danger of blackmailing by bootleggers, WOULD make respectability think hard.

THE United States Census Bureau reports 710 deaths of influenza last week. There are 1,250,000 new cases in this country.

The death rate is low in proportion to the number of cases, fortunately, but it is a dangerous and growing epidemic.

Probably one-half of the cases are caused by the habit of putting the hand to the mouth or nose, sometimes in moistening the fingers to turn the leaves of a book or newspaper. That plants the germs on the mucous membrane.

Children should be warned against that!

IT WAS mentioned in this column that any surplus of oranges, lemons, grapefruit, would soon become a deficit. Our wealth is increasing twenty billion a year, our population several millions a year. Only certain lands can grow citrus fruits, and those lands cannot be increased. Southern California was mentioned, of course.

The Sacramento Chamber of Commerce wants it understood that Northern California also grows citrus fruits. "The largest lemon grove in the world is at Maxwell, 75 miles north of Sacramento; Sacramento Valley oranges are first into the market for Thanksgiving and Christmas trade."

GEORGIA also wants it understood that the state produces most excellent Satsuma oranges, marvelously healthful for children and the best for making marmalade.

Nevertheless, the land that can grow oranges IS strictly limited. The nation's wealth and population are unlimited. That's a comfortable thought for land owners. Keep your land. There is only so much of that, of any kind.

MURDER CHARGE FILED AGAINST HELDMAN

DECLARED "MORALLY GUILTY"

Special Dispatch to Sun-Telegraph.

CANTON, O., Dec. 28.—Even though Mrs. Margaret Horner Heldman herself pressed the trigger that sent a bullet into her heart, her husband, Wilbur O. Heldman, was morally guilty of killing her and should face the grand jury, Coroner T. C. McQuate declared today.

McQuate filed an affidavit with Justice of the Peace Donald M. Smythe, formally charging Heldman with the murder of his wife, who was fatally shot December 13 as her husband was taking her to the county jail to answer for the killing of Vernard E. Fearn, which he said she had confessed.

"HUSBAND ACCESSORY"

If Mrs. Heldman committed suicide she may have been driven to it by the taunts, threats and suggestions of her husband, McQuate declared; and in that event, the coroner added, the husband was an accessory and should stand trial for murder.

The case, McQuate said, closely paralleled that of D. C. Stephenson, high official in the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, who was convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment because he persuaded Madge Oberholzer to commit suicide. She ended her life with poison and though he did not give her the poison the jury held he had virtu-

G. M. GADSBY

G. M. Gadsby, president, West Penn Power Company, today announced his resignation to accept a position with a New York financial house.

CLARK, MOVIE MAGNATE, MARRIES

James B. Clark, nationally known motion picture leader, and the former Alice Leech, now Mrs. Clark, are in New York today—the first day of their honeymoon.

They were married very quietly in Pittsburgh yesterday—so quietly that not one of Mr. Clark's associates in business knew that he was being married, or if he knew, had pledged silence.

Mr. Clark, instrumental in the building up the Rowland and Clark motion picture house chain and later vice president of the Stanley Company of America, is a grandfather. He resided with a daughter, Mrs. E. B. Gellatly, at 1739 Beechwood boulevard.

ON WAY TO BERMUDA

While Mr. Gellatly, Mr. Clark's son-in-law, and other friends refused any particulars concerning the wedding, or to tell where it was performed, Gellatly did confirm the report that the marriage took place

N. Y. MAN HELD HERE IN THEFT

Enrico Commune, 50, described by poilce as secretary of the Italian Chamber of Commerce of New York, was arrested by Pittsburgh and New York detectives at Seventh and Webster avenues today on a warrant charging him with theft of $125,000 of the chamber's funds. New York police have been seeking him for two months, they said.

New York police had received a tip that Commune had been loitering in an Italian restaurant in the Wylie avenue district, it is said. They forwarded a warrant to Pittsburgh authorities and sent a detective along to aid in identifying the fugitive.

The detectives arrested Commune this morning as he was standing on a street corner. He was taken to Central Police Station. He will be taken back to New York tonight, police said.

Commune is under indictment in New York, according to police, for systematic theft of funds of the chamber.

FEAR FOR KING RENEWED

By HARRY R. FLORY,
International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Anxiety over King George's condition, which was somewhat allayed over the Christmas holiday by the absence of disquieting news in the meager medical bulletins, again gained force this afternoon.

A doctors' bulletin at noon noted improvement in local conditions, but it admitted general conditions did ont show the same progress. The King is in a state of grave exhaustion. It is difficult to administer nourishment. New measures are being undertaken to combat weakness.

There was a long medical consultation by five dictors at Buckingham Palace in the morning.

It was authoritatively stated that improvement in local conditions is not paramount. Emphasis was laid upon the noon bulletin's reference to general conditions, which are not progressing quickly.

It has not been revealed what new treatment is being tried to lessen the general exhaustion.

DANGEROUS CAR RAILS REPLACED

The Rev. Henry Fox, president of the Washington Heights Board of Trade, yesterday revealed that trolley tracks along Grandview avenue on the brink of Mt. Washington were in such bad condition that a section of a rail could actually be lifted from the roadbed.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph obtained photographs supporting Mr. Fox's contention.

Following the publication of the photographs today, engineers were dispatched to the scene by the railways company to make an inspection, and these were followed by a repair crew which began making emergency repairs.

Railways company officials admitted that the condition of the tracks, where Mr. Fox lifted out a section of loose rail to graphically illustrate his complaint, constituted a hazard to operation of street cars, but denied that they had ignored repeated complaints anent condition of the tracks.

FEARS DISASTER

Mr. Fox expressed the fear that should a car be derailed at some points along Grandview avenue it might plunge over the Mt. Washington hillside. He said that four letters had been sent to the railways company calling attention to the condition of the tracks.

J. B. Donley, director of public relations of the Pittsburgh Railways company, said the repairs which were begun today were of an emergency nature to insure the safety of street car riders.

Next spring the entire Grandview section of tracks will be replaced. Plans are already under way for that work to be started when the city repaves the street.

UNSAFE TROLLEY RAILS

THE REV. HENRY FOX LIFTS RAILS

With his fingers, the Rev. Henry Fox lifted two sections of this Pittsburgh Railways Company rail in front of 213 Grandview avenue, Mt. Washington, from its roadbed. Each section is 4 inches long and when pulled out leave an 8-inch gap in the rail, over which trolleys pass daily.

BROKEN RAIL

This rail, 50 feet away from the entrance of the new Mt. Washington roadway, on Grandview avenue, is pointed out by the Rev. Henry Fox, who comments on its danger.

OLD GRANT SCHOOL MAY BE SITE

A new United States Government building to house the Western Pennsylvania branch of the Fourth District Federal Reserve Bank is projected for Pittsburgh.

Proposals for a magnificent structure, in keeping with modern building improvements, embrace a plan for the further development of the growing commercial district in the Grant street area. Negotiations have been taken up by the government for acquiring the old Grant school property at Grant street and Strawberry way.

Action by the City Planning Commission today in its emphatic disapproval of suggestions for the widening of Strawberry way has effaced all complications in effecting a deal. The Board of Public Education, owner of the Grant school site, may now proceed to option the property without fear of any probable encroachment for street improvements. The question has not come before the board for final action.

PLAN MADE PUBLIC

That the Government was considering the Grant school site became public when the Better Traffic Committee adopted a resolution asking for the consideration by the Planning Commission of suggestions as to the advisibility of widening Strawberry way from Gazette square to Wood street. It was noted in the minutes that "plans for the erection of a Federal Reserve bank building at Strawberry way and Grant street prompted this action."

Approval of the street widening plan, advocated by a number of property owners in the district, it was declared, would reduce materially the footage of the Grant school site, and hamper projects for an imposing structure such as it was believed the Federal Re-

SUNDAY SPORTS LEGALIZED IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 28.—In a stormy session in which attacks were freely made on Mayor Nichols and Charles F. Adams, vice president of the Boston Braves, City Council yesterday unanimously passed the Sunday sports bill.

This action was taken just a few hours after Adams had agreed to testify next Wednesday at a public hearing before the Finance Commissio. on his charge that a city councillor sought a huge bribe in connection with the ratification of the bill.

The sum of $60,000 has been mentioned as the bribe sought, to be split among a dozen members of the city Council.

Adams balked Wednesday at giving this testimony and Chairman John C. L. Dowling of the Finance Commission appealed to the Supreme Court today for an order to compel him to disclose the name of the bribe-seeker.

CHANGES MIND ON TELLING

After a conference between Dowling, Attorney Samuel Hoar, counsel for Adams, and Justice Pierce, of the Supreme Court, an announcement was made that Adams had changed his mind and would appear before the commission next Wednesday.

Taking the bill from the table yesterday was the start of a bitter

REED ESTATE AUDIT FILED

An audit of the accounting in the estate of former Judge James H. Reed was presented today in Orphans Court before Judge J. J. Miller. Senator David A. Reed, son of Judge Reed, was in Pittsburgh in connection with the presentation of the account to the court. Its contents become public when it is filed following review by the court.

Plane Tuned for Try At Distance Record

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Dec. 28. — (INS.) — Oliver C. Le Boutillier and Capt. Lewis Yancey plan to begin an attempt today or tomorrow to break the world's long-distance flight record. As soon as weather conditions are favorable, they hope to hop off from here in Mrs. Anne U. Stillman's Bellanca monoplane North Star for France Field, Panama Canal Zone, on the first leg of a flight to Pernambuco, Brazil, and return.

The proposed route covers more than 5,000 miles and will be traversed in easy stages after Panama is reached.

Straton Officiates At Marriage of Son

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Warren Bagenoch Straton, son of the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, and Miss Ruth Stokes Cater were married last night in Calvary Baptist Church. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father in the presence of 1,000 guests.

Mrs. Straton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Cater, of Douglaston, Long Island. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Walter I. Palmer, of Buffalo, N. Y., and John Charles Straton acted as best man for his brother.

Chicago Drys Seize 12,000 Gallons "Ale"

CHICAGO, Dec. 28. — (INS.) — There was a shortage of "Carling's Canadian ale" in Chicago today following a raid by prohibition agents on a brewery on North Clark street.

The raid netted 12,000 gallons of beer ready to be "spiked" into "Canadian" ale.

Dr. Baker of Tech Goes Under Knife

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, was operated on in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, today. Friends here received this word, but were not told the nature or outcome of the operation. Dr. Baker went to Baltimore a week ago for treatment and observation after an attack of influenza.

Smiths May Visit Europe in Spring

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Gov. Al Smith and Mrs. Smith will sail for London about the end of April to visit Europe, International News Service learned today on reliable authority. From London the Governor will go to Ireland, where his mother was born. Places of interest on the continent will then be visited, the entire trip to take about two months.

Earthquakes Twitch Toe of Italy's Boot

ROME, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Earthquakes this morning twitched the "Toe" of the Italian Peninsula, being felt in many sections of the District of Calabria. At Paola there was a shock at 4:40 a. m., followed by another at 4:56 o'clock. Cortale experienced repeated shocks around 5 a. m. None of the reports indicated any apreciable damage.

Lord Beaverbrook Hurt in Auto Crash

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Lord Beaverbrook, proprietor of the London Daily Express and London Evening Standard, was cut by glass when his automobile collided today with a motor truck at at crossroads near London. His secretary and chauffeur were injured.

Newspaper Office In Algeria Bombed

Black Will Resume Long Air Voyage

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher, will leave for London on the Majestic tomorrow to complete his unfinished flight from London to Capetown and return. He flew from Amsterdam to the Dutch East Indies, via India, in 1927. On May 14 last, Mr. Black started on a flight from London to Capetown, but abandoned the trip at Khartum, in the Sudan.

2,000-Ft. Fall Easy; 10-Ft. Not So Easy

WESTFIELD, N. J., Dec. 28.—Johnnie Perri, stunt flier, has a broken wrist. He got it in a 10-foot fall from an apple tree in releasing a parachute which had enabled him to make a 2,000-foot drop from an airplane without a scratch.

Humorous Thief Leaves I. O. U. For $150.

When H. D. Walters, owner of the North Side garage, 104 West North avenue, opened his cash register this morning he found an "I. O. U." for $150 he told police, and that sum was missing from the till. He asked police to look for Thomas Fox, 44, night attendant, whose name he said was signed to the "I. O. U."

Veteran Run Down, Driver, 18, Arrested

Stepping from the curb at Shady avenue and Forbes street early today, William Wooley, 34, a World War veteran from United States Veterans Hospital at Aspinwall, was struck by an automobile and seriously injured. He is in Homeopathic Hospital suffering cuts and bruises and probably internal injuries. Police arrested William Leman, 18, of 1677 Beechwood boulevard, as the driver of the machine.

'Modern Girl,' 104, Feared Near Death

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. James B. Fenton, of Jamestown, N. Y., and St. Petersburg, Fla., who bobbed her hair, enjoyed an airplane ride with George Haldeman and then wrote a story about it on her one hundred and fourth anniversary, was reported near death today, the result of a recent paralytic stroke. She came to the United States from Scotland more than 100 years ago.

McGuffey's Readers Get Dry Law Credit

WHELLING, W. Va., Dec. 28.—"McGuffey's Reader made the country dry," declared Rupert R. Bethem, Cadiz, O., prohibition director in an address at the Rotary Club here last night. The historic readers which were in use 90 years carried poems or articles that pointed out the evils of strong drink.

Surprise Liquor Refused, She Beats Law

CLEARWATER, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Alexander Hayden, of New York and Clearwater, thought a friend in New York was joking when he told her he might send her a few bottles of wine.

So it was a surprise, she told a United States commissioner yesterday when a shipment of 68 bottles of liquor was delivered at her home. She refused it and was acquitted of a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Vare Off to Florida With Nurse Staff

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Senator-elect William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, who has been recovering from a paralytic attack at his summer villa near here, will leave this afternoon for Fort Pierce, Fla. The Vares have a winter bungalow at San Lucie. It is reported that in addition to members of the family, a physician and two nurses will make the trip.

Ford's British Stock Plans Go Awry

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Henry Ford's plan to interest the British people in his automobiles by selling them 2,800,000 shares of stock in Ford Motors, Ltd., of England, has gone awry. They bought the stock at $5 a share, but the price rose so rapidly that they sold to make quick profits. Today it was estimated that only one-tenth of the stock remains here, the balance having been bought by investors in the United States. The price is now about $20 a share on the market.

BRIDE WEAKENS, BREAKS YEAR-APART CONTRACT

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Saying that her husband, Gordon R. Kinsey, former attorney general of Kentucky, had made a wedding compact specifying they should remain separated the first year of their marriage, a woman who said she was Mrs. Kinsey returned from France today declaring that she was unable to "stay out the year."

However, she fell only seven weeks short of the arrangement. They were married February 16, last, she said. Because Kinsey was not expecting her home until February, he was not here to meet her, the bride said, adding that she was hastening to their home in Louisville where she felt "certain of her welcome."

"I'm taking the first train," she said. "I won't wait for the year to end. I'll be so glad to see him that I'll even be willing to wash dishes."

Mrs. Rauh Robbed Of $300 Auto Robe

An automobile robe valued at $300 was stolen from the car of Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the city welfare department, while it was parked at Sixth avenue and William Penn way, last night, according to a police report.

2 AGED COUPLES DIE WITHIN FEW HOURS, OF PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia claimed the lives of two aged couples in the Pittsburgh district within 24 hours and saddened families today are making arrangements for double funerals.

At 1321 Warner street, North Side, David J. Johnston, Sr., aged about 70, succumbed to the malady Wednesday evening, and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnston, about the same age, followed late yesterday. Each had been ill but a short time.

John J. Dillon, 75, a retired furniture dealer of Superior street, Homestead Park, and his wife, Mrs. Bridget Dillon, 65, were the other two victims. Mrs. Dillon died about 2:15 o'clock this morning and her husband followed less than five hours later.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston both were born in Ireland, but had spent the past 60 years in this country. They leave two sons, two daughters and eight grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Dillon leave one son.

NON-CURRICULAR ACTIVITY OF PHI SIGMA SIGMA

U. S. TO BUILD BIG BANK HERE

serve Bank should have. Once before the Planning Commission had frowned on the improvement of Strawberry way, and in reaching its conclusions in the report disclosed today are arguments covering six typewritten pages. Summing up these arguments the city ... declare:

... disadvantages of the proj... so great and so over... and the advantages ... either so trifling or so purely theoretical, that the proposal must be condemned as utterly bad, and it should be flatly disapproved."

VALUABLE SITE

The Grant school site covers 19,650 square feet and has a frontage on Grant street from Strawberry way to the Koppers Building. About a year ago it is said that the Board of Education refused an offer of $60 a square foot, or $1,179,000 for the property.

Interest in erecting a new home for the Pittsburgh Federal Reserve branch would be manifested by practically every bank in the district, including those in 19 Western Pennsylvania counties, since the banks are virtually the owners of the Federal Reserve institution. The actual handling of the project is in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington. In the expenditure of large sums of money for building purposes the Federal Reserve Board is required to obtain a special act of Congress.

It is freely admitted that negotiations for the Federal Reserve branch building in Pittsburgh have been going on for some time, but no formal announcement as to the project is forthcoming from any of the parties concerned.

AWAIT BILLER'S SURRENDER

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(INS)—Culmination of the Rothstein murder case drew a step nearer on the police horizon today. Hyman (Gilly) Biller, racketeer and payoff man, was expected to surrender and face trial with his "boss," George A. McManus, for the slaying of the notorious Broadway gambler.

Biller's surrender will not necessarily mean an early trial. He will be held in the Tombs with McManus until two "mystery men," also indicted for the slaying, are apprehended.

Youth Pays $1 Word For Berating Police

DONORA, Pa., Dec. 28.—John Hosker, 17, paid one dollar a word for berating the police—when a policeman wasn't around. However, a bluecoat hove into hearing in time to catch 10 words said about him.

"He was belittlin'," the policeman said in police court.

"How much?" asked the burgess.

"I heard 10 foul words," the officer replied. And Hosker paid a $10 fine.

First Death in War Against N. Y. Thugs

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(INS)—Police Commissioner Whalen's recently inaugurated nightstick and bullet war on the underworld claimed its first victim today when Louis Blanco, 19, died in a Harlem hospital from wound received in an attempt to escape from a patrolman.

Blanco was arrested as a suspect in a holdup of a tailor shop, and when he attempted to flee the officer shot him three times.

Tractor Kills Man Working on Roadbed

Andrew Smith, 50, of Broughton, was run over by a caterpillar tractor at Snowden this morning and killed. He was working for the Winston Company on the new roadbed of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway. Coroner W. J. McGregor said he would detain the driver of the tractor, whose name was not given, when Smith's death was reported.

Aged Hiker Says John D. Gave Him $100

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 28.—Although reports from Florida stated that Ralph Walker, of Mt. Pleasant, 80-year-old hitch hiker, had been denied admittance when he attempted to renew acquaintance with John D. Rockefeller, Walker is back again in Greensburg with a roll of bills which he insists were given to him by the oil magnate.

Walker started for Florida in November intending to seek an audience with Rockefeller whom he said he had driven around New York while Walker was a cab driver 50 years ago.

The Westmoreland County man maintains that the oil magnate gave him instead of a thin dime, $100 as a remembrance.

MURDER CHARGE FILED

FEARED CHAIR

Heldman, according to Dr. McQuate, apparently adopted a somewhat similar course. The coroner mentioned as one of the things said by Heldman that may have caused his wife to shoot herself that just before she pulled the trigger he told her she probably would be executed in the electric chair for killing Fearn. McQuate said Heldman admits he told her this.

"It is highly possible," the coroner said, "that the suicide was superinduced by suggestions made at different times by her husband, and in such circumstances it would be moral murder and Heldman's actions would have made him an accessory to murder."

No tangible evidence to support the murder charge is given in the affidavit, but accompanying it is a statement from the coroner in which he says he took action at the request of Heldman himself and at the suggestion of Ora M. Slater, the Cincinnati detective who investigated the case.

HELDMAN WANTS ACTION

Heldman has said he would rather face the murder charge and have his status quickly cleared than remain in jail indefinitely as a coroner's witness under $25,000 bail.

Heldman denies he killed his wife. He said she shot herself after confessing to him she had killed Vernard E. Fearn, Waco coal operator.

Henry W. Harter, Jr., prosecuting attorney, said the preliminary hearing probably would be held Wednesday. The grand jury meets January 7.

CAPTURE REBEL WHO MENACED MORROW

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Maximiliano Vigueras, insurgent leader, credited with two attempts to capture United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, was under arrest today. He was captured in the town of Chalco and sent to Mexico City for trial in compliance with the new ruling against summary executions of insurgents.

Vigueras told newspapermen that upon learning that President Portes Gil had promised a fair trial for everyone, including insurgents, which he styles himself, he decided to surrender.

TAKEN BY RELATIVE

He was en route to Ayotzingo to meet a man who was to arrange a private meeting for him with the governor of the state for the purpose of negotiating his surrender. One of his own relatives, who is a lieutenant in the home guard troops at the town of Chalco, captured him, but four companions succeeded in escaping.

Vigueras added that he had been an insurgent since 1910, fighting against all governments, but that he admired Portes Gil and wished to return to a peaceful life.

MENACED MORROW

The first attempt to capture Ambassador Morrow with which Vigueras is credited occurred about five months ago on the highway between Mexico City and Puebla when the ambassador was returning from Puebla. Although a number of automobiles were stopped on the road about the time the Morrow car was due to pass, the ambassador's automobile got through safely.

A second attempt was made on the Cuernavaca highway when Mr. Morrow was returning to Mexico City after spending a week-end at Cuernavaca. Vigueras' men attacked the town of Huitzilac on the highway and they were credited with intending to capture the ambassador when he drove through.

Freed as Harmless, Goes on Rampage

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Alexander Katowski went home last night from the Psycopathic Hospital, released as harmless. At dinner time he produced a revolver, fired four times at his daughter, Mrs. Bertha Derman; missed his mark each time, then slashed his own throat with a razor. He is not expected to live.

BLUE-LAW CRUSADE HERE TIED UNTIL STATE ACTS

It was pointed out today that similar steps could be taken here if the way were opened through the passage of state legislation making statutes governing Sunday observance more in keeping with the times.

"The city's hands are tied," said Councilman P. J. McArdle, "in any effort to follow Boston's example until the Legislature gives us more freedom of action. However, the majority of the people in Pittsburgh and every large community in the state favor a sensible enforcement of the law, and it is but a matter of time until changes will be made which will enable us to have healthful recreation on Sunday.

"Every good American is against the desecration of the Sabbath," said Representative Matthew A. Dunn, "but at the same time the majority of the people believe in consistency. The Sunday laws could be brought up in keeping with modern times without interfering with religious observance or offending peace and good order. Wholesome sport, a good picture or inspiring music on Sunday is better for the people, the community and for religion itself."

PROPOSES REFERENDUM

"It is gratifying to see a conservative state like Massachusetts taking a step toward the rational observance of Sunday," said M. A. Musmanno, representative in the legislature from the Twelfth Allegheny County district. "I favor modification of the Sunday laws in this state permitting the people of each community to decide by referendum whether they shall have Sunday sports and clean amusements."

Liberal clergymen of Pittsburgh also heartily approved the action in Boston.

"As long as the Sunday sports bill, as passed by the Boston City Council, is in favor of the ordinary people, granting them the privilege of Sunday recreation restricted to the afternoon, I am in favor of it, and I trust the time may come when Pittsburgh will see its way clear to pass a similar measure," was the comment of the Rev. Dr. Carl A. Voss, pastor of Smithfield German Evangelical Protestant Church.

Rev. Frank Edwin Smith, associate pastor of the First Unitarian Church and the Northside Unitarian Church, declared:

"I believe Boston has taken a step in the right direction. I trust that Pittsburgh soon will have a more open Sunday in which the citizens of this city may more naturally lead a normal life, where all may enjoy the day wholesomely, as the privileged few are now permitted to do in golf and with the automobile, or as others now do stealthily."

"I see no difference between paid admission to wholesome recreations and contributing to a silver offering to defray the expenses of a minister and choir who have provided mental recreation for others. There is no real distinction, in fact."

BOSTON O.K. ON SUNDAY SPORTS

attack lasting three hours with the Mayor and Adams as targets, in which a majority of the Council members took part. Council Dowd said it was a four-reel thriller and accused Adams of running amuck and shouting: "Stop thief, I've been robbed."

Mayor Nichols, who had taken credit for the Sunday sports bill as an administration measure, also was a mark for several well-aimed verbal shafts.

Dowd also declared that the reason for tabling the bill 10 days ago was to give the councillors opportunity to study it, as he declared it was ambiguously worded.

FOUR SPORTS BARRED

The Sunday sports bill permits in any city, or town, which accepts the act the right to hold any athletic outdoor sport or game within 1,000 feet of a church or place of worship, with certain exceptions.

Sports barred under the measure are horse racing, automobile racing, boxing or hunting. It will permit professional Sunday baseball, football hockey or soccer.

The new law is expected to be a boon to the two major league baseball teams, the Braves in the National League and the Red Sox in the American League.

For six years the battle has been waged in its behalf, largely by Alfred G. Dos, of Quincy, friend of Ban Johnson and former minor league player and magnate.

In the Legislature of 1928 the bill was rejected by a vote of 22 to 9 in the Senate and 110 to 93 in the House. But popular sentiment for the measure was strong and the initiative petition was invoked to get a popular vote upon it at the recent national election.

In the state vote was 803,281 in favor to 467,550 against, or about two to one in its favor. In Boston the result was even more emphatic, 172,574 voting in favor to 59,599 against, or about three to one in favor.

It was because popular sentiment was so overwhelmingly in favor of Sunday sports that the delay of the city council in adopting the bill was resented and finally led to the charges of Mr. Adams which are to be sifted next week.

PROHIBITION UP TO PRESIDENT --PINCHOT

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, submitted for the Durant prize a plan calling on the President and President-elect to enforce the prohibition law, the Durant prize award offices announced tonight.

His plan was submitted for the $25,000 prize offered by W. C. Durant and awarded to Maj. Chester P. Mills, former prohibition administrator for New York.

"Because the problem of enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment is as wide as our system of government," the former governor said in his plan, "the head of the system is the man to deal with it. The President of the United States can control all branches of law enforcement in the nation and can effectively influence enforcement of all smaller political divisions, such as cities and states. No one else can."

Among the former governor's suggestions was removal of diplomatic immunity for liquor imported to foreign embassies in Washington.

"The free and unlimited importation of liquors by diplomatic representatives is the chief cause of the wetness of Washington," Pinchot's plan said.

Pinchot sent a telegram to Durant today congratulating Maj. Mills on his victory. He called the major's plan "a valuable contribution to the solution of one important phase of the liquor traffic—the illicit diversion of commercial alcohol."

614 Bodies Taken To China to Rest Near Ancestors

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The steamer Alabama put out to sea here yesterday with the bodies of 614 Chinese who died in Oregon during the last 10 years.

The ship was bound for Hongkong, whence the bodies will be transferred to various points in the homeland, to be buried near the graves of ancestors.

2 HELD IN TAXI TICKET THEFT

Gabriel Bucci, 34, of 6316 Joseph street, was held for court on a larceny charge at a hearing before Magistrate John W. Orie in Morals Court when he admitted taking five books of taxicab tickets from the office of the Green Cab Company last November 30. Bucci, an express company truck driver, was alleged to have taken the tickets while helping to move the offices of the company in November. Yesterday Louis Cohen of N. Elizabeth street, was held for court on a charge of receiving stolen goods when police testified that he had sold two of the stolen ticket books. Cohen testified that he had bought the books from a Negro whom he had known as Davis. Officials of the taxicab company testified today that a quantity of the books had been stolen, the exact number of which could not be accurately determined.

MILT'S ADENOID ARGOSY RIDES HIGH ON WORD WAVE

By DAVID P. SENTNER,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Fifteen jagged-throated entries, without benefit of straight jackets, continued to sing, gibber, and otherwise hold incoherent communication with themselves today at the "Talking Marathon."

At the sixty-ninth hour of the wordiest contest in history since Eve asked Adam for a new Easter leaf, Betty Wilson, of Erie, Pa., former swimmer and ex-show girl, was tongue-tied for first place with Albert Williams, of San Antonio, Texas, parachute jumper and flagpole sitter. Each registered no time out at 10:30 a. m.

As behooves an alleged expert at a great public spectacle, the writer predicts that Miss Wilson and Williams will finish in a deadlock of illiterate verbiage when the final period is called at midnight on Saturday.

MILT WILL OBLIGE

This situation called for a playoff, and if the public insists on buying tickets to hear nothing in particular, Promoter Milt Crandall will act like the gentleman he is. Of course, Williams, not having his flagpole with him, will be at a disadvantage.

Chief Hawk, Cherokee Indian, who had a feather in his headdress for every grunt, was ejected for his own good when he ran up a fever temperature.

Others who dropped out included Capt. Allan D. "Smoke" Risley, of Humboldt, Kan.; Mrs. Jean Cabell O'Neill, Washington, D. C., and the Greenwich Village entries, John Rose Gildea, poet, and King Phillip Moorehead, the "Singing Bird."

The esprit de corps among the talky folks is terrible. Among all the words being used up nobody has a good word to say for any other contestant.

SORORITY GIRLS HERE FROM 21 COLLEGES

Sorority girls from 21 colleges and universities from New York to California are in Pittsburgh for national and district conclaves. They have been discussing serious matters pertaining to sororities, but they are also finding ample time to make a little "whoopee."

More than 50 girls, representing 18 chapters, are attending the three-day national convention of the Phi Sigma Sigma sorority at the William Penn Hotel. They voted their annual donation of several thousand dollars for the benefit of undernourished children in New York state. Yesterday they attended a luncheon and dinner dance and tomorrow terpsichore will reign at a "the dansant." Miss Helen Lefkowitz, of the Pittsburgh chapter, is convention chairman, and Miss Margaret Segal, president of the Pittsburgh chapter, sub-chairman. Miss Belle Furman, of the Adelphia College, Brooklyn, N. Y., chapter, is national president.

Members of the Pittsburgh Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Phi, women's national social fraternity, are hosts to members of chapters from the University of Akron and Ohio State University at the second province conclave. About 60 girls are attending the conclave at the sorority house, 334 North Craig street. Sorority business was discussed at yesterday's and Wednesday's sessions. More than 60 couples attended an informal 'Montmartre Cabaret" at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg, Wednesday night, and a dinner dance was held at Webster Hall last night. Four Pittsburgh girls were initiated yesterday. Miss Gertrude J. Friedlander, member of the Pittsburgh chapter, presided. Miss Ruth Schmidt is convention chairman, and Miss Ann Rosenzweig, assistant chairman.

CLARK, MOVIE MAN, WEDS

yesterday afternoon. It was learned from other sources that Mr. and Mrs. Clark are en route to Bermuda to spend their honeymoon, and will sail from New York Saturday.

How long the couple will remain away is not known, but within the past month, Mr. Clark purchased a new and very elaborate home on the Fox Chapel road, where it is believed the couple will reside.

WELL KNOWN IN MOVIES

Mr. Clark is well known in the moving picture industry, having been, besides one of the builders of the Rowland & Clark chain, an official in early years of the First National Pictures, of which his former partner, Richard A. Rowland, is now head.

When the Rowland & Clark houses were sold, nearly two years ago, to the Stanley Company, Mr. Clark became vice president. He was in the real estate business later and still controls the Blackstone Building, Fifth avenue, downtown, and the Capitol Theater, Braddock. He also purchased the property on which the new East Liberty theater, the Enright, is built.

Mr. Clark's first wife died more than five years ago.

Italian Consul Fears Black Hand Threat

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Police are investigating an alleged Black Hand threat made against Joseph Sposato, Italian consul in Syracuse, following his discovery of a pair of black gloves laid in the form of a cross in his hallway. Sposato told police he feared the wrath of an Italian against whom he had made a complaint to the United States government a few days ago.

FIRE FIGHTERS WILL ATTEND 2 FUNERALS

Volunteer firemen from all sections of Allegheny county will attend funeral services tomorrow for Adolph Sonnett, 30, and Joseph De Perro, 44, of the Stowe Township Volunteer Fire Department, killed early Wednesday while on their way to the Heidelberg oil plant blaze, when the fire truck they were riding plunged down an embankment off Windgap road, near Ingram.

Requiem high masses will be sung for both men, the services for Sonnett to be in St. Francis de Sales Catholic Church, Chartiers avenue, at 9 o'clock, and for De Perro at 8:30 in the Norwood Italian Catholic Church, Stowe township.

The bodies will be taken to the cemeteries on fire trucks owned by the fire company. The two funeral processions will meet at McCoy road and Island avenue and will go as far as Chartiers avenue and Singer street, where they will separate. De Perro will be buried in Calvary Cemetery, Pittsburgh, and Sonnett in St. Mary's Cemetery, McKees Rocks.

CATCHES AUTO THIEF IN ACT

"Where are you going in that automobile?" demanded Samuel Grimley, 6408 Jackson street, of a man he found in his car at Collins and Broad street yesterday.

"Home," said the man.

"No, you're not!" responded Grimley as he seized the man, dragged him from the auto and held him until police arrived.

Today the suspect, who gave his name as Walter Kemmerling, 27, of 16 Highland avenue, West Etna, was held for court, charged with larceny, by Magistrate W. J. Soost, in Frankstown Avenue Police Court.

HOOVER AIDES URGE SPECIAL SESSION

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—President-elect Herbert Hoover will not be able to avoid calling a special session of Congress, Senator Borah, of Idaho, and others who have been urging postponement of farm relief legislation until an extra session after March 4, declared today.

It was Borah who, during the campaign, induced Hoover to promise a special session if a satisfactory farm bill was not passed this winter.

Borah said:

"There are three problems—the reduction of marketing costs in the home market, the handling of the surplus, and tariff relief to keep out foreign competition. One farm bill, like the McNary measure, cannot possibly solve the problem.

"The farmer today is paying 60 cents on the dollar to market his crops in this country. This is his real immediate problem. The remedy is to build up the home market, and second, to place his products in the home market without letting him be robbed. If that can be accomplished, it very nearly settles the farm problem."

M'NARY BILL INSUFFICIENT

Borah maintained the McNary bill, which Secretary of Agriculture Jardine approved, would not settle the farm problem. He said it related only to the major crops, and that other crops have a greater marketing value.

"No attention is given to perishable crops," he said. "We must reduce the middleman's profits on such crops, and we must give the farmer some control over his product until it reaches the consumer.

"As for the tariff, we know what we can do. The relief is definite. There is no reason to wait until next fall. If the manufacturers don't want tariff revision now, they don't have to ask for it. The farmers do and it has been promised them and Congress must do it this spring."

Brookhart said:

"We are assured of a special session. The House will not act on farm relief at this session. We want Hoover's brand and we want it while he's in the White House to guarantee it. As for the new McNary bill, I will fight it."

HOOVER NOT TO MEDDLE

ABOARD U. S. S. UTAH, (INS. Via Arlington, Va., Radio Station) Dec. 28.—President-elect Herbert Hoover, who is due in Washington, Sunday, January 6, will adhere strictly to a policy of "hands off legislation" until after his inauguration on March 4, it was learned today.

Hoover is following with the closest interest the legislative situation in Washington. He receives news of each day's events by radio.

The President-elect faces an extremely busy 10 days in Washington. He will hold numerous conferences with party leaders regarding cabinet appointments.

So far Hoover has not intimated his attitude regarding a special session of Congress.

Mountain Moonshine Floods Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Samuel O. Wynne, federal prohibition administrator for Eastern Pennsylvania, announced last night that 60 alcohol permits in Philadelphia had been revoked and that 37 more would be canceled before January 1.

He declared his campaign to stem the flow of illegally diverted alcohol had been successful, but that the prohibition enforcement officials in Pennsylvania faced a new problem—moonshine from secluded stills in the mountains of the state.

'T. B.' COSTS 179 MILLIONS YEARLY, SCIENTISTS TOLD

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Scientists assembled here at "the greatest scientific congress ever held in this country" were told today by Dr. Harold D. Larsen, of the University of Wisconsin, that tuberculosis causes more than 129,000 deaths every year in the United States, and that if the disease could be wiped out the average length of life would be increased about two years and the life expectancy of the average person raised from 55 to 57 years.

Dr. Larsen was one of scores of speakers at various meetings being held simultaneously at the eighty-fifth convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. About 5,000 learned men and women are attending the sessions, which will continue until January 2. Among those present are the country's foremost authorities on medicine, psychology, geology, geography, physics, sociology, education, engineering, agriculture, zoology, botany and other branches of science.

"The effect of tuberculosis on the life expectancy, or average future life-time, is of supreme importance," said Dr. Larsen. Lives destroyed annually by tuberculosis represent a tremendous economic loss to the United States. Estimating the annual monetary loss, it is at least $179,000,000."

WASPS' COURTSHIP TOLD

Love-making of wasps was entertainingly discussed at another sectional meeting by Dr. Grace H. Griswold, of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. She said:

"The habits of wasps make a fascinating study. Before mating occurs, a distinct courtship often takes place. In one species, the male stands in front of the female, his body swaying from side to side, while he rapidly taps her antennae with his. Then he stops these attentions and quickly runs around her, returning to his former position.

The savants were greatly interested today by the announcement of Prof. John J. Abel and Dr. H. Jensen, of Johns Hopkins University, that they had made a discovery which may prolong human life. They announced they had isolated the hormone which makes insulin operative and which may lead to the synthetic production of insulin for use in treatment of diabetes.

CHOKING INFANT STILL LIVES

CINCINNATI, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—condition of Frank Brooks, one-and-one-half-year-old baby confined in a hospital here suffering partial strangulation from the effects of a toy motorcycle lodged in his throat, remained serious today. Surgeons attending the case said there had been no change.

It is 12 days since the child accidentally swallowed the toy at his Asco (W. Va.) home while eating a package of popcorn in which the plaything was placed as a prize. All efforts to remove it have been fruitless and recently pnenmonia set in.

The baby's throat is inflamed and it is difficult for him to swallow food. He can take only liquids. Partial strangulation prevails.

His general physical condition has been too weakened to operate. Surgeons still await a more decided improvement before attempting to extract the toy.

Ryan Son Foregoes Contesting of Will

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Possibility of a contest of Thomas Fortune Ryan's will, disposing of an estate valued as high as half a billion dollars, vanished today when Allan A. Ryan, a son whom the magnate remembered only with a set of shirt studs, failed to appear to dispute the testament.

It was expected the will would be admitted to probate later in the day.

Man Cut in Tussle, Robbed by 2 Thugs

George Kapron, 32, who lives at a Third avenue hotel, was cut on the left hand by one of two Negro thugs who held him up early today in Forbes street, near Stevenson street. He was robbed of $19. Neither of the men had a revolver, but one threatened Kapron with a knife and during the scuffle that followed, he was cut. He was treated at Mercy Hospital.

Homestead Police Lose 3 Hours But Save Dog

With rope nooses hung from poles, Homestead police labored three hours today to extricate an Airedale dog which had become wedged in a narrow space between two buildings at 228 and 230 East Eighth avenue, Homestead.

When the animal finally gained its liberty it trotted off with no ill effects from its 18-hour imprisonment. The police did not learn the name of its owner.

BRITISH DISTILLERS INSURE AGAINST PROHIBITION IN '29

By F. A. WRAY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Leading British brewers and distillers are taking out insurance policies at Lloyds against the possibility of prohibition in this country, it was learned today. Some of them evdently fear that prohibition may be "put over unexpectedly."

"Dry forces" in Great Britain are trying to make an issue of prohibition in the general election next year.

Officials of Lloyds are mystified by this unexpected rush for an insurance, which is the latest in the schedule of "freak policies."

At first the underwriters were inclined to laugh at the idea, but now they are issuing policies for large sums at the rate of 5 shillings for every 100 pounds. These represent "odds" of 400 to 1 and, in the opinion of experts, are not very generous.

The majority of the insurers are men who have spent their lives in the brewing and distilling business, and the chief motive of insuring is the possibility of a prohibition policy being adopted when the government changes in 1929.

NegroFound Hanged, 'Mystery,' Says Jury

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The body of Emanuel McCallum, Negro automobile mechanic, was found dangling or a rope from a tree limb yesterday near the Richburg Hill gravel pit. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by "hands unknown," and no arrest has been made.

HAYS BOROUGH TO JOIN CITY

Hays borough will become a part of Pittsburgh on Monday. At the same time many persons in Mifflin township are trying to get enough signatures of taxpayers to approve an annexation there.

The move of Mifflin township to join the city has been under way for some time. The districts of Brierly Heights, Calhoun Place and Lincoln Place, or one-tenth the township's entire area, are included in the area planned as a part of the city.

Hays borough has a population of about 4,000 and the Mifflin township about 3,000.

600 Cases of Flu In Connellsville

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 28.—There are at least 600 cases, more or less severe, of influenza in this city, according to Dr. E. A. McCombs, president of the board of health. The physician said a "grippy" condition is most marked and that after a few days in bed the patient is able to go about. pneumonia seldom following the diseases, as it did in 1918.

EVANS, EUWER, ROBERTSON WANT JOB

Unless efforts to persuade the nine members of Council to agree upon a successor to the late Controller John H. Henderson are successful before the regular meeting Monday, a factional battle may be precipitated.

In an apparent effort to check the drive to have former Councilman William N. Robertson named to the post, some North Side leaders allied with the faction headed by Senator M. G. Leslie are reported to be booming E. Boyd Euwer, treasurer of the Republican County Committee, for the post.

Both Robertson and Euwer are residents of the North Side. Leaders of that section are demanding that, inasmuch as Henderson was a resident of the North Side, the office be given to some resident of the seven wards on that side of the river. County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong has urged the selection of a North Sider for the position.

Friends of Henry Oliver Evans and other aspirants from other sections of the city, are advancing the argument that the fact an office-holder lives in one section of the city is no reason why his successor should come from the same section. Henderson, they point out, succeeded E. S. Morrow, who did not live on the North Side.

There are reports that members of Council may hold an informal meeting to discuss the problem some time this afternoon. It is understood that former State Chairman W. L. Mellon, generally recognized as the Allegheny county leader, is giving the selection of a controller considerable thought and that he has been in touch with Armstrong and other leaders.

Whoever is elected by Council Monday must seek re-nomination at the primary election next September. The Republican party will nominate a mayor at the same time, a fact which is causing the various groups and factions to give unusual attention to the controllership.

Dickinson Leaves $250,000 Estate

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—The late Jacob M. Dickinson, secretary of war under President Taft, left an estate valued at $250,000, as shown by his will filed for probate here.

One-third of the estate is left to each of his two surviving sons, Jacob and Henry. The other third is divided between two granddaughters, Martha and Helen Dickinson. A bequest of $11,000 for various charities is provided in the will. Mr. Dickinson died here December 13.

CITY O. K.'S FUND FOR NORTH SIDE PLAYGROUND

City supervision of the privately-owned North Side playgrounds was provided by Council today when the budget committee approved a $4,890 appropriation for the work during 1929. Equipment will be installed.

The budget committee also approved a $17,500 fund to be used by the Better Traffic Committee in an educational campaign to prevent accidents. A special contingent fund of $9,000 was ordered included in the budget to compromise the claim of Gale Parks, burned at the Leslie Playground, who was awarded a jury verdict of $10,000 against the city.

Council voted to place on the payroll seven employes of Hays borough, recently annexed to the city.

600 HERE HAVE PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia is more prevalent in Pittsburgh than ever before, according to Dr. Philip E. Marks, head of the bureau of infectious diseases here, who stated today that more than 600 cases of the malady exist at this time. One hundred and forty-one new cases were reported yesterday, he stated, and a total of 339 deaths have been ascribed to the disease since December 1, he said.

All records have been broken here, he said, the worst month heretofore having been March, 1926, when 676 cases of pneumonia were reported, with 216 deaths.

WIFE, 21, FREED AS ROBBER, 20, GOES TO JAIL

Charles Weaver, 20-year-old house robber, of Beech and Galveston avenues, pleaded guilty to 38 charges of burglary and robbery in Criminal Court today and was sentenced to serve from 15 to 30 years in Western Penitentiary.

Mrs. Weaver, 21, was paroled for three years by Judge Ambrose B. Reid after she had pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods. She has a 9-month-old child.

"I was out of work. My wife and baby were hungry. I had to steal to feed them," Weaver told the court.

Weaver stole goods valued at $5,000 in the East End and North Side, police said. Loot valued at $1,500 was recovered. Weaver would knock on the front door of a home, and if his summons was answered would ask to do any repair jobs about the house, leaving if refused. If no one answered he would break into the house, police testified.

Mrs. Weaver was taken to Criminal Court from Central Station, where, this morning, she denied her love of finery had caused her to urge her husband to steal. She testified before Magistrate J. W. Orie that her husband forced her to pawn the loot he obtained by stealing. She was held over by Orie and taken to Criminal Court, where, half an hour later, she was arraigned and paroled.

Operators of Pool Get Atlanta Terms

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The Albany baseball and stock market pool, a magnet for thousands of get-rich-quick Wallingfords, vanished in thin air yesterday just as had their dreams of wealth, when two partners in the enterprise were sent to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta.

William J. Pringle, chief figure in the gigantic pool, was recently convicted and sentenced to 18 months in Atlanta. His partners, James Otto and Walker J. Kane, were sent to Atlanta for a year and a day each.

Girl's Driver Dies At Wheel of Auto

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—It was not until their car had struck a parked police motorcycle that Miss Virginia Morris, of Staunton, Va., realized she was riding with a dead man. The driver, Nathan Frye, 43, of Utica, N. Y., apparently had died of a heart attack. He had met Miss Morris at the Pennsylvania station a few minutes before the car struck the motorcycle.

MRS. GRAYSON, LOST FLIER, OFFICIALLY LISTED DEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson, lost on the first leg of a transatlantic flight a year ago, has been declared officially dead by Surrogate James A. Foley.

The surrogate's decree named Andrew J. Wilson of Muncie, Ind., Mrs. Grayson's father, as sole heir of her estate of about $12,000 and granted letters of administration to the National City Bank of New York.

The decree set the time of death as approximately 7:30 o'clock on the evening of December 23, 1927, the hour at which the surrogate was told a radio message was picked up saying the plane was down.

Other occupants of the plane beside Mrs. Grayson and Goldsborough were Oscar Omdal, pilot, and Fred Kohler, engine expert who intended to go only as far as Newfoundland.

Head of Graft Jury Probers Dead at 77

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 28.—Randolph Reeves, 77, who served as foreman of the Federal grand jury which indicted alleged bootleggers and racketeers in Pittsburgh, is dead at the home of his nephew, Walter Paxton, 130 Brookside avenue, following an illness due to pneumonia. He was a carpenter and had spent practically his entire life in this city.

Weather Conditions.

Low barometer is influencing the weather over much the greater portion of the country this morning, and, as a result, there is much cloudiness, but the precipitation was generally light and was limited to the upper Ohio Valley states, the Middle and Northern Atlantic Coast states and the Rocky Mountain states.

A low is centered over the New England coast; lowest barometer, 29.42 inches, at Boston, connected by a trough with another center over Eastern Ontario. From this center a trough also projects southwestward over the central plains to another center over Western Wyoming and Eastern Idaho, lowest barometer, 29.74, at Yeystonstone.

High barometer overlies the southern states, and a high has developed over the Northwest. The Northwest high is producing much colder weather over Montana and the adjacent Canadian provinces. It is slightly colder over the Ohio Valley and Atlantic Coast states, and warmer over the central and Southern Plains states.

River Conditions.

There has been little change in the river stages during the past several days. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.5 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.4, and Dam No. 6, 8.3. The dams are up.

Noted Eye Specialist Dies

BELMONT, Mass., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Dr. Lucien Howe, noted ophthalmologist, a native of Harrodsburg, Ky., is dead. In 1917 he was awarded at St. Louis the Leslie Dann gold medal given annually to the person who has done the most for the conservation of vision.

PA. EDUCATORS NOMINATE OFFICERS

READING, Pa., Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Election of officers and selection of a site for next year's convention occupied the 4,000 delegates to the sixty-seventh annual Pennsylvania State Educational Association sessions today.

Francis D. Haas, principal of the Bloomsburg Teachers' College, and C. R. Foster, principal of the Indiana Normal School, were nominated for president. G. W. Armstrong, principal of the Lock Haven Teachers' College, was unopposed for first vice president as was Landis Tanger, superintendent of Reading public schools, for second vice president. Tanger is a former president of the association.

Invitations were received from New Castle, Uniontown and Philadelphia for next year's convention.

CHANGE ATHLETIC LIMIT

Passage of a resolution enabling a ninth grade junior high pupil to compete in senior high athletic contests was looked upon as the outstanding act of the business session affecting students. The act also would permit a high school student to compete on athletic teams for four years instead of three as at present.

Twenty years was decided upon as the age limit for any student to compete in high school athletics regardless of what grade the contestant might be in. The day a student passes his twentieth birthday anniversary he automatically becomes ineligible to participate in high school athletics under the ruling.

The delegates registered their objections to forcing members of the department of public instruction to contribute to political campaign funds.

American Bridge Co. Gets Ohio Contract

AKRON, O., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The American Bridge Company, of Pittsburgh, today was awarded the contract for the erection of the steel in the huge hangar to be built at the municipal airport by the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation. The hangar will house giant dirigibles to be constructed for the United States Navy. Approximately 6,500 tons of steel will go into the frame of the hangar, which is to be the largest in the world.

15-Minute Kiss Wins Mailman Divorce

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Stanley E. Black, Palmyra postman, is in possession of a divorce today from Mrs. Almira Black, after Frank Miller, a private detective, testified he had watched William Hale, an embroidery shipper, feed Mrs. Black gumdrops and then kiss her for "15 minutes and 34 seconds according to my watch."

CRIPPLED WAR VET ROUTS FOUR BURGLARS; KILLS ONE

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—There aren't any more bullets in Joseph M. Adler's old army pistol today, but there is one less bandit alive.

Adler came out of the World War with the revolver and a wooden leg. Last night, when four men held up his drug store, the war veteran, who was in his living quarters above the store, took the gun from a drawer and hobbled downstairs.

Through a peephole Adler saw his clerk being held off by revolvers of the four robbers. Pushing open the door and bracing himself with his wooden leg, Adler opened fire. His first shot went through the heart of one of the bandits, later identified by finger prints as Harry Cassel, 24. Another man was wounded and had to be dragged from the store by his companions, who returned Adler's fire without effect.

All Through the Night

She slept soundly, although earlier in the evening she had over-indulged because she had been to a party, and everything was so good.

Just before retiring, she took some ACIDINE, which in its cool, quiet way, soothed the delicate membrane, destroyed the burning acid and indigestion which had developed, and might have otherwise caused a sick, sleepless night.

She makes her husband and children take ACIDINE, too, because she knows this wonderful new discovery relieves indigestion and its results, gas, sourness, head colds, acid stomach, sick headaches, rheumatism, and other dangerous disturbances interfering with work and school and happiness.

You, too, can free your household from indigestion. ACIDINE, an almost priceless boon to sick and tired stomachs, tones up the entire system and puts it in shape to withstand the attacks of colds, indigestion, acidosis, and the resulting sick headaches, tired days and wakeful nights that almost put the fear of living into our hearts.

You owe it to yourself to try ACIDINE. It is so much better, so much pleasanter, so much more efficient than the hundreds of old-fashioned remedies it has displaced in thousands of homes. No yeast, no laxatives, no anything, can compare with ACIDINE for relieving 90% of the small sicknesses in any home.

Your druggist knows. Ask him about its tremendous sale, and the legion of satisfied users that have brought it to first place among household remedies.

The RICHMAN Organization Serves ALL Men Equally Well

WHATEVER a man's financial standing may be—no matter what he likes or dislikes in clothes—no matter what his size or build—there is a Richman suit or overcoat made to please him in style, material, fit and wear. And the standard Richman price appeals alike to the man who saves merely because it is good business, and the man to whom economy is of considerable importance.

For half a century, the Richman organization has been growing in size, in experience, and in ability. Today, with the world's largest direct-from-factory sales and production, we are able to sell clothes at $22.50 which ordinarily would command a price at least fifty per cent higher—clothes made of the finest materials money can buy, styled by the best designing talent in the industry, skilfully tailored by workers who own a big interest in this business.

P. & W. VA. RAIL ABSORPTION OF BELT OK'D

Authorization for the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company to acquire the West Side Belt Railroad Company lines was granted yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington.

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad Company already owns all securities of the West Side Belt Lines and controls 98 per cent of its stock, so the transaction is really a "bookkeeping" or "intercompany matter."

By yesterday's order, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Company is permitted to assume obligation and liability of $7,000 of first mortgage bonds of the West Side Belt Lines and $3,104,000 of first mortgage of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, now outstanding. No bonds are to be issued and the entire deal is the one company taking over the other and assuming its obligations.

Spray the Nose and Throat

Prevent Attacks of Colds and "Flu"

USE NOZOL

To Keep the Nostrils Clear and Healthy

"Spray the nostrils and throat with an oil to keep them lubricant. 'Flu' and grippe germs cannot take hold in membranes that are well lubricated" ... such is the advice being given out by leading health authorities.

And for this purpose all urge the use of a highly effective preparation... NOZOL.

Spray or drop a little Nozol in each nostril and the throat two or three times a day. The antiseptic oils cling to the linings, protecting you against the germs.

Nozol costs but little and you should get a bottle today at your druggist. Take no chances, particularly with the present prevalence of flu.

On sale at May Drug Stores and leading druggists.

LAST OF 5,000 NEWSIES SEE ALDINE SHOW

If after today, there are any newsboys in Pittsburgh who have not had the time of their young lives over Christmas, it is not the fault of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph or A. J. Simons, manager of Loew's Aldine Theater. For this is the fourth day on which they have made it possible for more than 5,000 "newsies" to see one of the funniest shows they have ever attended in Pittsburgh. Nearly 4,000 of them have already enjoyed the show at the Aldine and today another 1,000 are attending the final treat.

The program arranged for the vendors of The Sun-Telegraph is a "wow." Ask any of the 4,000 boys who have seen it. They will tell you that Karl Dane and George K. Arthur in "Brotherly Love" were too funny for words. But, there are other funmakers on the program. Val and Ernie Stanton, in "English As She Is Not Spoken," know how to score a hit with a boy audience. Van and Schenck, that clever pair of vaudevillians, would make a mummy laugh with their comic songs. Gus Arnheim and his Cocoanut Grove Orchestra play jazz selections that would make tired feet want to dance. A Fox Movietone News reel shows the latest world events in sound.

Yellow tickets only are good for admission today. They are distributed through the Circulation Department of The Sun-Telegraph and all newsdealers.

ENTERTAIN "NEWSIES"

VAL STANTON ERNIE STANTON

Cook Forest Now Owned by State

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Cook Forest, containing approximately 8,000 acres, located in Forest, Carion and Jefferson counties, is now in the possession of the state.

Secretary of Forests and Waters Charles E. Dorworth, announced yesterday the formal purchase of this tract of virgin white pine and hemlock. The price paid was $650,000, $250,000 of which was raised by private subscription.

3 N. Y. BLOCKS PURCHASED BY ROCKEFELLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The New York Times says today that it was learned from "most reliable authority" that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has taken title to nearly three blocks of property between Forty-eighth and Fifty-first streets and Fifth and Sixth avenues in a record real estate deal.

The property is to include a site for the new Metropolitan Opera House and the purchase price was said to have been more than $100,000,000.

The title was held by Columbia University. Formal announcement of the transaction is expected from Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

Plans for the new Metropolitan Opera House call for a site in the block between Forty-eighth and Fiftieth streets, with a spacious plaza in the center of the block. Tentative plans provide for an underground parking space for approximately 1,000 automobiles.

The property originally was the site of the old Engin Botanic Gardens, purchased more than a century ago from the city for $4,807.36 by Dr. David Hosack, whose name was associated with medical progress in the United States.

100 MORE DISSATISFIED U. S. FLIERS READY TO QUIT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Warning that 100 more of Uncle Sam's crack fliers in the Army air service may resign unless Congress acts quickly to insure them merited promotion has been given by Representative Furlow (R.), of Minnesota.

Furlow, himself a World War flier, advanced the following facts to illustrate the "critical and deplorable condition" now prevailing in the service:

1. All but one of the round-the-world fliers, who won undying fame by their exploit of a few years ago, have resigned from the service.

2. Practically all the fliers who served in the World War are still first lieutenants, the same rank they held when the war ended.

3. Some of the most valued men in the Air Corps have resigned in the last few years to accept responsible positions with civil aviation concerns and still more are expected to follow in their footsteps.

The round-the-world fliers who resigned were First Lieuts. Leigh Wade, H. L. P. Arnold and Erik Nelson, and Second Lieut. H. H. Ogden. Of this group, Capt. Smith alone remains in service.

Others who have resigned include Lieuts. H. J. McCready, at one time holder of the world's altitude record and the first nonstop trans-continental flier; C. N. Montieth, outstanding aeronautical engineer, and J. P. Vanzandt, an authority on World War flying.

Man's Tale of Wife's Abuse Wins Divorce

Because, it was testified, she struck him on the nose, causing it to bleed; threw a can of beans at him; hit him with a poker, and nagged him, Judge Frank P. Patterson, in Common Pleas Court yesterday granted John R. Rees, Butler Hotel, McKeesport, a divorce from Mary Rees.

Chinese Youngster Has Her Doll's Hair Bobbed

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Santa Claus can't leave long-haired dolls here and get away with it.

A 6-year-old Chinese girl took her doll to a barber shop and after the barber cut the girl's hair, she insisted that her doll's hair be bobbed. Accommodated, she left the place carrying the doll and wearing a big smile.

Do these two things to avoid "flu"

Keep your system in good condition; also protect your nose and throat

There's no need to get panicky, because the papers are full of news of an influenza epidemic. There's no use in isolating yourself because a lot of other people are sick with it. If you take certain simple precautions every day—and then don't worry—the chances are you will throw off any "flu" germs you are exposed to, and keep well.

We're not recommending that you dose yourself with a lot of medicines, either. Just observe two common-sense health rules which can be easily followed.

FIRST of all, make sure your system is in first class order. Don't let it get slowed up or sluggish. See to it that it functions perfectly. The easiest way to get run down and in a condition to pick up disease is to neglect this all-important matter.

Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable. Many doctors are therefore prescribing Nujol, as in no case does it cause exhaustion or weakening of the system in any way.

Nujol can't possibly upset you or disagree with you. For it contains absolutely no medicine or drugs.

Get a bottle today at your nearest drug store and start taking Nujol tonight as one simple way to keep fit and to protect yourself against influenza.

Dr. David says:

"You can't help breathing air that's laden with 'flu' germs and other bacteria these days. But you can protect your nose and throat against them. Keep them from lodging there and breeding and causing trouble.

"I'm advising all my patients these days to keep Mistol on hand and use it regularly. The first thing in the morning before you go out. And again at night when you come home. Don't be afraid to use it freely. It will do no harm. And then stop worrying. You've done all you can to safeguard yourself.

"Put Mistol up your nose. There's a special dropper that comes in every package that makes it very easy to use. Just tilt your head back and drop it in your nose until you feel it in your throat. You'll notice the pleasant, cleansing effect at once. Mistol clears your head and makes breathing easy. It has a healing, soothing effect on the membranes and relieves any irritation or inflammation. It helps dry up a running nose. Use it, too, as a gargle. Mistol is good for a sore throat or hacking cough. And above all, protects the nose and throat against germs.

"Don't wait till you begin to sneeze or your throat aches. Take my advice and get a bottle of Mistol today. Every druggist knows it."

The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against influenza. Start this wise two-fold precaution now. Don't delay.

Nujol and Mistol are both made by the same famous laboratories, of the finest quality materials and with the greatest skill possible. Both preparations are harmless. At all druggists. Aren't they worth trying?

NEW OUTBREAK OF FLU HELD POSSIBLE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Another outbreak of influenza more severe in nature than the disease now prevailing is regarded as a possibility later in the winter by Surgeon General Cumming. He said that he viewed the situation at present as serious, but declared that the present wave is mild in character and that there is an apparent absence of complications.

There is little likelihood, in the opinion of the surgeon general, that the disease will not spread over the Atlantic states as it has the West and parts of the South.

"This seems to be a typical influenza epidemic," he said, "and it is similar to the 1918 outbreak in the mildness of the first cases."

Deaths in the 1918 wave of influenza were 500,000 in excess of the normal number from the malady, and in 1920 there were 100,000 excess deaths, but in 1926 there were only between 15,000 and 20,000. Indications thus far have led Surgeon General Cumming to believe that mortality this year may be greater.

He agreed with the estimate by public health officers that there were approximately a million and a quarter new cases in the United States during the week ended December 22. This estimate was based on 240,562 cases actually reported from all but seven states.

Deaths from 58 cities for the week ended December 22 were 710, reports to the census bureau showed, as compared with 475 deaths in 62 cities for the previous week. Surgeon General Cumming said that this bore out expectations of a large increase in deaths as the number of cases increased.

MRS. COOLIDGE TO HUNT WITH PRESIDENT

By GEORGE E. DURNO.
International News Service.

SAPELO ISLAND, Ga., Dec. 28.—Excited over the success of the President on the second hunting expedition of his life, Mrs. Coolidge apparently has become infected with the hunting virus, and today she planned to accompany her husband on a third quest for game.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge are spending the Christmas holidays here on Sapelo Island as the guests of Howard E. Coffin, the automobile and airplane executive.

Yesterday, Mr. Coolidge bagged three pheasants and two wild turkeys.

When the executive returned with the birds and proudly recounted the experiences of the day, Mrs. Coolidge expressed a desire to go along on the next expedition.

The Coffin plantation abounds in game, assuring Mrs. Coolidge of a good chance to shoot something. If she does, she will have gone the President one better, for he made his first excursion into the field last month in the Blue Ridge section of Virginia in quest of quail and returned only to report he had missed.

OVERCOAT COST LOW—THIS WAY

After trying on several overcoats in a downtown store, Thomas Rutledge, 21, of Boston, finally found one that fit and walked out without paying for it, police testified in Central Police Court today.

He was arrested at Sixth and Wylie avenues, police said, en route to a pawnshop. A pawn ticket for another overcoat, valued at $100, alleged to have been stolen in another store, was found in his possession. He was held for court.

2 Brothers Sent To Penitentiary

BEAVER, Pa., Dec. 28. — Two brothers, William and Henry Atkins, of New Brighton, entered pleas in court yesterday to charges of breaking and entering and robbery and were each sentenced to serve from three and one-half to seven years in the penitentiary.

Chief of Police Fred Kirkpatrick, of New Brighton, told the court he caught the brothers and Louis Frederick robbing the Schweppe drug store and they later confessed to robbing the Eagles' Club of New Brighton. Frederick, because of his youth, was sentenced to Huntingdon Reformatory.

UNDERSEA FEUD SUSPECTED IN POISONING

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Henry S. Gaw, 29-year-old chemist's helper, found poisoned yesterday morning in the metallurgical research laboratory of the Guggenheim Brothers here, may have been the victim of a feud begun on the floor of the ocean. Police learned that Gaw and James Baker, 22, former laboratory helper, for whom they are searching, both served on a Navy submarine.

The peculiar character of Gaw's death, which preceded by three hours the assault and robbery of two Baltimore truckmen at the plant, led police to advance several other theories. They believed the theft of a few dollars from a truckman was a "blind" to cover the real motive. The poisoner probably was actuated by revenge or a desire to gain possession of a secret chemical formula, they said.

The victim's gums and lips were blistered from cyanide that evidently had been forced down his throat after being mixed in a cup of coffee standing on a table nearby.

Despite denials by the owners of the laboratory that they possessed any secret and valuable formula, some detectives pointed out that the truckmen saw the suspect looting the laboratory files. The truckmen said pictures of Baker resembled the man they saw.

The Force of Life Is The Blood Cell

The requisite for building up and repairing every organ and tissue of the body. It permeates every part of the system. The cure of nearly all chronic diseases depends on a CLEAN, PURE BLOOD STREAM. It is the vital factor in health maintenance, as it contains the essential elements of nutrition and repair. BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS stir every cell into activity, remove the toxins, thus the normal processes of nourishing the body are restored.

Disease never stands still but is progressive, and it stands to reason if the system is not strong enough to avoid the affliction, then it cannot throw it off! Get the best and quickest treatment and have the trouble over once for all. Why take medicine day after day from year to year? We give each patient a thorough physical and laboratory examination and blood test.

"MODERN CARRIE NATION" CALLS POLITICS RUM ALLY

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Did the woman who recently smashed a speakeasy here use her hatchet in vain? She intimated as much to a group of club women.

Mrs. Maud Wilson, the woman who has come to be known as "a modern Carry Nation" through her militant sally upon the liquor-vending place, told the clubwomen yesterday that there was "very little hope" of any action being taken against liquor law violators as a result of the grand jury probe now under way. She asserted that "political influence on both sides is too great."

Mrs. Wilson charged in her talk that there were still many places in the city where liquor was sold.

In introducing her, a club spokesman praised the woman's saloon smashing exploit and said that it had forcibly called lax conditions to the attention of the nation as well as to Kansas City.

Man Forgets Own Burglar Trap And Is Shot

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Louis Cellini, whose home has been receiving considerable attention from burglars of late, mounted a double-barreled shotgun over a picture frame, and attached a long cord from it to the door of his room. If a burglar opened the door he would be the target for both barrels.

Cellini forgot the trap yesterday when he opened the door. He was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

MARRIAGE A LA CARTE

By DON J. O'BYRNE

THE young man pushed the sombrero back from his head as he mopped his forehead and dropped the reins over the sleek neck of the little bronco that had borne him far that morning. The rider was tired as was the animal and he wasn't going to drive his willing beast any farther without water and food. And with his mind in this frame he dismounted in front of the house for entertainment of man and beast that Jose Salvio presided over.

Now it is true that the young man, whose name was Juan Corea, wasn't half as much interested in his mount as he tried to make himself believe he was, and so we must dismiss him as a hero. He wasn't the type from which they were made, although he had always seemed like one to an admiring mother and a foolishly indulgent father, but when we met Juan he was more than 100 miles from the home base, across the border of Bolivia and with the prospect of being out of Peru for many years to come.

It came about this way: Juan was a spoiled son as you know already, and he was one of the most self-centered creatures in the world as every young man who came in contact with him soon found out. And he was good to look at, as every senorita confided to every other senorita who didn't tell her first. And on the present occasion this spoiled boy was over the border because of these good looks and the impression they had made on little Dolores Sancho, who had believed him, to her great regret. It was the little girl's brother, Innocencia, who had intervened to make the home atmosphere unhealthy for Juan, and the foolish fugitive felt that he was now far beyond the reach of the easy-going young man. The fact is he didn't know Innocencia.

Few guests came the way of Jose Salvio's entertainment, especially such as suggested a residence of some weeks as Juan had. It was a dank and dreary old house, and had little appeal to the gay Juan or to anybody else who believed in comfort. In a short time, however, the fugitive found out that the wine was very good, the brandy better and the first glimpse of his host's daughter all that could be desired.

Although he had fled from the fear of his part in the sorrow of Dolores, this Lothario was ready for new conquests, and Marie, the daughter of old Jose, seemed to be in every way fitted into his plans for temporary enjoyment. Like other birds of prey, Juan did not rush things, but rather swaggered his stuff for a few days where his quarry could admire his points, and she came to expect to find everything that was good in the fellow's very presence. And he was ready to follow up his silent conquest.

Fortunately for Marie her father wasn't one of the kind that threw the female members of his family into the arms of every adventure. There was something queer about the story this young man confided to him, but he paid well and the old man allowed him to go a certain distance, not far enough to cause trouble or regret to the family. Jose was a wise old bird who had some experiences with the foreign gringoes who had robbed his and all the neighboring acres of their phethoric tin deposits and had left nothing behind them but holes in the ground and stories of broken hearts and homes. And he was going to protect his home against any such disaster.

"Might I take the senorita for a ride this beautiful morning?" This was the proper way to approach the subject—the father being the object of the query.

The father said "No" several times, but the young man persisted until one day the old man gave permission. Marie rode well, and the mating call seemed to be attracting her to her cavalier when a neighbor came along and insisted on accompanying them to the old abode hotel where Jose held sway.

What the neighbor had seen, or what he told Jose, or what Jose decided about his guest have no place in this story, for the very night afterwards the easy-going, unpretentious but very thorough Innocencia alighted in front of the hotel, helped to put his mount away in some sort of stable comfort, and then made inquiries about Juan. Over his wine Jose told the story, or as much of it as he knew, without personal comment of any kind.

Before Juan reached the hotel, from which he had been absent all day, Innocencia had disappeared after telling as much of his sister's story as Jose ought to know, and Marie heard it as well as the precautions against letting the gay cabellero know anything about the visit.

Juan had eaten a good dinner and was talking to the old man when a vehicle of some sort was heard outside the door. Jose bustled his heavy body into the moonlight, and in a few minutes he led the deceived Dolores into the room. Juan became amazed at the apparition, and was more amazed when the girl seemed to be alone. How did she get there and why? These were the thoughts the wily head of the cruel Juan contained, but he did not realize he was reckoning without his host, and Innocencia and Marie.

As he arose from his chair to retire from the room he found his way blocked by the goodly presence of Innocencia beside whom walked the padre who had baptized them both and whose personal appearance so far from home was not understandable, nor was the presence of another priest who was an entire stranger to Juan. He couldn't make out what it all meant. He had expected that if Innocencia overtook him there would be some shooting or knife slinging, but this was beyond him.

"Sit down right where you are," the brother of the gentle and altogether sweet Dolores insisted. "You're going to get married tonight."

"But I don't want to get married."

"You will get married, and everything has been arranged by me, Innocencia, the slow, the contemptible. We have the license and a native Bolivian priest so that there will be no mistakes."

Two of Innocencia's friends made their appearance after the ceremony, and Juan was warned by his new brother-in-law that it would be dangerous to try to get away from them on the return honeymoon trip. Innocencia had decided that he was going to stay a while. He had seen Marie when he had told his story to her father in the afternoon, and she was interested in him during the ceremony when she stood up with the bride, and he had fallen head over heels in love with her—a way such easy-going fellows do.

"Can I take the senorita for a ride?" he asked the old man the following day.

"Take her and the good God bless you and her," laughed the wise old man as he nudged him in the side and sent them off into that land of romance where everything should go right.

Janitor's Washing Mural Painting Costs $1,200

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 28.—A courthouse janitor's "boner" is costing Mahoning county $1,200.

The janitor tried to wash a mural painting in the courthouse, but used a solution too strong. For two weeks' work in restoring the painting, Vincent Adelente, New York artist, will receive $1,200.

Fighter Does Not Succumb to Cold!

Army men learn to take care of themselves, and they don't pamper colds like many civilians. They knock them out between morning and night; with a compound that comes in plain, pleasant-tasting tablets. No trouble to carry, and so easy to take; but amazingly efficient, as you'll find out!

Pape's Cold Compound works so quickly you'll think it luck the first time. And stops grippe or "flu" if you give it time and take several tablets. Pape's way of stopping colds is worth remembering, so remember the name; 35c at druggists—they all have it.

LONDON GIRL DENIED PAGAN RITES AT TOMB OF MOTHER

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Pagan rites for dead are illegal in England. This is established by a judgment rendered by the Supreme Court of Appeals.

Miss Gertrude Renira Wenanah Hiskyns-Abrahall was restrained by the lower courts from entering her mother's burial vault in Paignton Cemetery, because, the cemetery authorities claimed, she was making sacrificial offering of fruit, flowers, wines and food and was burning candles in "Pagan rites."

Miss Hiskyns-Abrahall appealed, declaring that she had the right to enter the vault.

"The idea of this lady that she had a private place to which she might resort for 'acts of piety' was a mistaken one, and one which the authorities were right in preventing," said Lord Justice Sankey in giving judgment. "This lady must not delude herself with the idea she was following the practices of the early Christians only. The Assyrians and Indians did the same, as well as many pagan tribes, but there practices are not suitable to the present era."

Among the things the cemetery authorities claimed they found in the vault of Miss Hiskyns-Abrahall's mother were a cooked pigeon, wines, coffee and milk

MEXICO MOVES TO PAY DEBTS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—A law has been passed authorizing President Portes Gil to negotiate with foreign governments for aggregate settlements covering all claims of their nationals against the Mexican Government for revolutionary damages. The law is intended to fix Mexico's internal indebtedness.

The bill provides for the appointment of a committee to study and fix the total internal obligations after which the president will issue a law regulating the payments.

YOUNG BOLES MAY DO HEROICS IN PICTURE VERSION OF "RIO RITA"

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.

JOHN BOLES is another Hollywood player who faces a very happy New Year indeed. Since the advent of the sound films, Boles and his melodious voice have taken the studios by storm. Now he is the leading candidate for the hero role in the audible picture version of Ziegfeld's "Rio Rita."

Boles is a Gloria Swanson "discovery." Before there were sound pictures the Marquise selected him as her leading man in "Loves of Sunya." Which proves he is handsome as he is talented. Since then he has appeared in many pictures for various companies. Although under long term contract to Universal, he has recently played and sung the star role in "The Desert Song" for Warner Brothers. Boles is a Southern boy and spent many long years in arduous study before getting the break in Broadway musical comedy which finally brought him to the screen.

As the motion picture industry revolted against the use of the word "movies" to describe its product, it is now in arms over the appellation "the talkies" for audible photo plays. Although the name is pretty definitely tagged on to them, there may yet be time for a re-christening. Unfortunately the chances are that no one will think up a name that will catch on and stick.

Health Forces Director to Quit

TED WILDE, who rose from the position of gag man with the Harold Lloyd outfit to that of directing the spectacled comedian in "The Kid Brother" and "Speedy," has quit his job to rest at a health resort. Ted was pretty badly shot up during the war. He was with the Thirty-second New York Infantry, and never has entirely recovered from wounds received at St. Mihiel. Harold hasn't yet chosen another director for his present picture, "T. N. T."

Some of the studios are waking up to the fact that fan mail is not the exact measure of a player's popularity it has always been supposed. Persons who write letters of adoration to the various sheiks and sheikas of the screen comprise an exceedingly small fraction of the multitude who attend the film theaters. Many, many millions of people go to the movies each day of the year. Only a minute fraction of one per cent of these are writers of fan letters.

One of Hollywood's picture producers says he can't understand how you can make a photoplay out of a book about a card game. And that's why he didn't buy "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

Ex-Bandit Now On Movie Lot

PICTURE studios are somewhat akin to the famous Foreign Legion in that many old characters bury their pasts to face new futures on the screen. A recent discovery is Carlos Ramos, who according to Paramount, is an ex-bandit. Of course, Carlos himself prefers to be called a "revolutionist." But the fact is that he was one of Pancho Villa's caballeros during the Mexican chieftain's hotsy-totsy days below the border. Carlos stopped a dozen bullets before seeking the peace and quiet of Hollywood and the movies. Apparently, he is now playing a role in Gary Cooper's film, "Wolf Song."

Blanche Craig, rotund character actress who has appeared in pictures with the greatest stars in the movies from Valentino down, has been selected by Director Richard Wallace for an important part in "Innocents of Paris." Blanche will be the mother of the French star, Maurice Chevalier, in this, his initial American photoplay.

Felt Soles for Dugan Trial

NO foolin', they had to sole a hundred pairs of shoes before a crank could turn for "The Trial of Mary Dugan." The scraping of the feet of the mob in the courtroom simply drowned the voices of the players in the sound device. So felt soles were affixed to every pair of shoes. Then all was okeh for the "Interlock," which is the new word they use in sound pictures instead of the old, familiar cry "camera."

Dick Grace, film stunt man, who still lives despite a broken neck and more injuries than seem possible, is back from New York with news of a book soon to be published and an order for a magazine yarn. They say Dick's stories of stunt men will create a sensation in Hollywood, as it is said to tell of lives almost wantonly risked for the sake of a cinematic thrill. Incidentally, Dick declares that Tom Mix is one of the very few stars in pictures who actually do their own daredevil ing. Most of the hair-raising risks are taken for them by stunt-men doubles. Dick's specialty is air crashes.

BISHOP FETES EDUCATORS

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—The Rt. Rev. John Mark Gannon, bishop of Erie, was the host at a dinner last night in honor of the 500 delegates and visitors here for the convention of the Catholic Educational Association of Pennsylvania, which opened here yesterday.

Problems of the parochial schools and Catholic colleges were discussed at two sessions yesterday. Among the speakers were the Rev. John L. Featherstone, Scranton; Brother G. Lucian, St. Thomas' College, Scranton, and the Rev. Paul Campbell, Pittsburgh.

The convention will close today.

"THANKS, SAME TO YOU"

Florenz Ziegfeld can make sincere the usual response to New Year greetings. His production, "Show Boat," has just closed its first year in the Ziegfeld Theater, New York, with gross receipts of slightly more than $2,500,000. This amazing musical show was seen in the Nixon just prior to the opening of the engagement in New York, where its many excellencies seemingly has made it a fixture.

Convict's Success Writing Fiction Aids in Parole

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—John L. Murphy, author-prisoner, in the Ohio State Penitentiary, was made eligible for parole yesterday when his sentence was commuted by Gov. Donahey.

Murphy was serving from 10 to 15 years for burglary. He was admitted to the institution in September, 1923.

Since his incarceration, Murphy has written many war stories that have established a reputation for him as a fiction writer. It is said that his income from his stories amounted to $7,000 last year. A New York magazine editor was among those who recommended that Murphy's sentence be commuted.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR THOMSON

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Funeral services for the late Fred Thomson, western film hero and former Army chaplain, will be held at the Community Presbyterian Church at Beverly Hills today.

Active pallbearers will be Harold Lloyd, William Randolph Hearst, Charles Farrell, Henry Thomson, George Hill and David R. Faries. The Rev. Arthur L. O'Dell will have charge of the burial services, assisted by the Rev. Paul Elliott. Interment will be at the Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale.

Thomson, internationally known athlete, died Christmas night following an illness which became acute a week previous to his death. He is survived by his widow, mother and a three-year-old son.

SOUND PICTURE BODIES JOIN HAYS GROUP

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, which is headed by Will Hays, membership in the organization was voted to RCA Photophone and John E. Otterson, president of Electrical Research Products, both sound picture organizations. David Sarnoff, president of RCA Photophone, was elected to the board by the Hays organization.

Electrical Research Products is the manufacturer of the synchronizing process of the Western Electric Company. RCA Photophone is a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America engaged in the commercial development of devices for recording and reproducing sound pictures and in producing talking pictures.

The board of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America also elected as directors Harry M. Warner, representing Warner Brothers pictures and Vitagraph; Albert Warner, representing First National pictures, and Hiram S. Brown, representing F. B. O. Pictures Corporation.

Six Seconds For Safety

Pittsburgh doctors are asking a truce with reckless drivers during the holiday season. They want to catch up with their appendixes.

This was the warning issued by the Pittsburgh Motor Club in its campaign against accidents, death and injury during the season. Six seconds, the club contends, will prevent the accidents which so often result in tragedy. The club points out that last year 25,775 persons were killed in auto accidents.

BIDS ON SCHOOL FUNDS LEFT UNOPENED

McKeesport School Board members last night refused to open bids of banks seeking to care for the $1,000,000 deposits of the board. A controversy has been waged for several weeks, started by a member who believed that higher interest than the present 2 per cent should be paid.

Bids from seven banks, five from McKeesport and two from Pittsburgh, were ready to be opened when the meeting was called last night. After the board refused to open the bids, it was agreed to put the funds in the hands of Daniel Tobin, treasurer, to deposit in any bank he sees fit.

Armed Bandit Gets $20, Overlooks $100

One hundred dollars in a cash register in the restaurant of Frank Flaherty, Eighth avenue, Homestead, was overlooked last night by an armed robber who held up Flaherty and stole $20. The robber entered the restaurant with a revolver in his hand and threatened Flaherty and several customers.

Flaherty dropped a tray of dishes he was carrying and started toward the robber, who turned and fled after snatching several bills from the register.

ANN HARDING REMAINS IN PITT

The engagement of "The Trial of Mary Dugan" in the Pitt has been extended another week, beginning next Monday night. Ann Harding and the original New York cast are presenting this play here. It is packing the Pitt to capacity.

The attraction in the Alvin for the New Year's week is to be "Music in May," the latest operetta to be produced by the Shuberts, which opens its engagement New Year's eve. Matinees will be given New Year's Day and Saturday. There will be no matinee Wednesday.

A rollicking comedy is "The "Beaux' Stratagem," which the Players' Club of New York will present in the Nixon Theater New Year's week, opening Monday night. There will be a special matinee on Tuesday, New Year's Day.

Frankie Heath, one of the popular figures in American vaudeville, will be heard in a "Quartet of Song Stories" on the Davis stage next week. Miss Heath will be one of the headliners in the two-a-day programs, which were successfully resumed in the Davis this week.

BENEFIT GROUP HELD BANKRUPT

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Proceedings for the revocation of the charter of the Progressive Beneficial Association of Tarentum were begun yesterday in the Dauphin County Court by Attorney General Baldrige.

The action was taken on advice of Matthew H. Taggart, insurance commissioner, who said the company was insolvent. Taggart placed the company's assets at $30 and the liabilities at $200.

Another petition asked for the revocation of the charter held by the National Safety Insurance and Trust Company of Philadelphia, which has been non-operative for 65 years, and the court recalled the charter of the Acme Beneficial Society, also of Philadelphia, which has been merged by another association.

Eskimos' Orchestra To Play in Sanders

The Cliquot Club Eskimos, an orchestra which played its way to fame via radio and night clubs, will be featured at the annual New Year's eve party in Sander's Inn, Aspinwall, Monday night. Saturday night Ralph Webster and his Orient Orchestra will play.

How to Escape FLU

1 Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most apt to be; crowded cars; public meeting places; warm, stuffy rooms.

2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose.

3 Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrous fruits. Keep the bowels open. Take every precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have high resistance against germs.

4 Above all, avoid catching cold. Any cold may be the forerunner of flu. Take Bayer Aspirin at the first sign of a cold and you can ward it off. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at first sign of sore throat, as this will remove the infection.

5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor.

HAPSBURG ARCHDUKE SUES FOR BILLION LOST IN WAR

BUDAPEST, Dec. 28.—(A.P.)—Suit for the recovery of property valued at $1,000,000,000, once belonging to the Archduke Frederick, richest member of the House of Hapsburg, has been instituted before the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague.

The claim was brought by Archduke Albrecht, pretender to the Hungarian throne, on behalf of the Archduke Frederick, his father, as field marshal of the Austrian Army during the war.

The property in dispute consists of royal palaces, castles, estates, furniture, antiques, paintings, jewelry, gold and silver objects belonging to Frederick in Italy, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania, which were sequestered by those states under the peace treaties.

If the plaintiff should win Frederick would be the richest royal personage in Europe.

Jugoslavia has refused to be represented by counsel at the trial on the grounds that the Hague Tribunal is incompetent to pass upon the suit. Jugoslavia claims that the status of the property has already been settled by the treaties of Neuilly and St. Germain.

Daughter of Army Man Weds Ensign

GUILFORD, Conn., Dec. 28.—(A.P.)—The marriage of Miss Margarita Bonzano Harris, daughter of Mrs. Marie Bonzano Harris, to Ensign S. David Willingham, U. S. N., of Birmingham, Ala., was solemnized here yesterday by the Rev. John C. Fogarty.

The bride is the daughter of Col. Frank E. Harris, U. S. A., and on her maternal side is related to the late Cardinal Bonzano.

VANILLA AND THE VILLIANS — Vanilla Saved Again

IT'S THE WOMAN WHO PRAYS AND I PRAY THAT STONE-WALL WILL KNOW WHAT TO DO IN AN EMERGENCY AND IT'S SAFE TO SAY THAT THIS IS AN EMERGENCY
WHILE THEY TWO ARE ENGAGING IN UNNECESSARY REPARTEE, I AM ALREADY HALF THROUGH WITH MY PLAN OF RESCUE - LET JUSTICE FALL WHERE IT MAY FEAR NOT, VANILLA, ALL IS WELL
SUCH A RESCUE IS REALLY FOR SOME ONE MORE DESERVING THAN ME - OR AM I BELITTLING MYSELF?
AH, INTO THE OILY WATERS - AND I HAVE PLENTY - OF MATCHES!
YOU COULD SET THE WHOLE WORLD ABLAZE, BUT THE MASTER MIND WILL LIVE IN THE END - WHAT IS BLAZING OIL TO A GUY LIKE ME - OR DO YOU REFUSE TO ANSWER?

DECEPTION ISLAND, Antarctica, Dec. 28.—(Via Whaler Hektoria and KUP—San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station.)—The unusually calm weather prevailing here has given us an opportunity to prepare for the Polar storms certain to follow. Today we have been securing guy ropes on the planes and making everything shipshape ashore.

Conditions at present are exceptional. Calm, albeit, cloudy weather, has been the order lately. Despite the fact that meteorological records maintained for the last 23 years show this area always before at this season has experienced violent storms.

We have recently developed all our still pictures and tests of cine-film on hand. We seem to have a fair photographic record of our flights to date.

8,383-Mile Call Made by 'Phone

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 28.—(A.P.)—A record long distance telephone communication was achieved yesterday when Prince Carol, brother of King Gustav, and his wife, the Princess Ingeborg, conversed with the Crown Prince and Princess of Belgium who are now at Bandoeng, Java, Dutch East Indies. The distance traversed was 13,500 kilometers (8,383 miles.)

The Crown Princess of Belgium is Prince Carol's daughter.

$2.10 for Family, $13 for Horse Arouses Wife

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(A.P.)—Mrs. Simon Koslof wants to know if there is any justice in her husband's spending $13 a week to support his horse and only 30 cents a day to support Mrs. Koslof.

Koslof is a bread peddler earning $35 a week, his wife said in answering his petition for divorce. He spends $13 a week on the horse, she said, while limiting her to $2.10 a week for the support of herself and three children by a former marriage.

Bar Mill Boilers To Get Increase

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 28.—For January-February, boilers in mid-western bar mills will receive an advance of 25 cents per ton, from $11.55 paid in November-December, to $11.80. This increase follows the bi-monthly examination of sales sheets which showed an advance in the average selling price of bar iron shipped during the 60 days ended December 20. Muck mill hands and finishers are paid 2½ per cent more under the new schedule.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Girls' School Societies Charity Ball Proves Brilliant Affair

EVERYONE was at the charity ball, given last night in the William Penn Hotel by the Federation of Girls' School Societies, one might be tempted to say, after watching the swirling dancers in the crowded ballroom.

And besides the hundreds and hundreds and hundreds of folks, from mothers and fathers to their boys and girls home from school, who were there, there were many hundreds more not only in Pittsburgh, but as far away as radio sets have traveled, who heard the music for the dancing.

Because the music was to be broadcast, the committee members decided to make it a radio ball. So "radio" was the ball that on the stage in the ballroom was a huge gilt loud speaker from which came not only music from the orchestra ensconced behind it, but the dancers as well.

The younger folks seemed careless of the fact that probably last night saw the passing of another social tradition—the charity ball. Many of the older folks were heard mentioning regrets that this important event will probably never mark the holiday season again. Since the federation has joined the welfare fund, its annual benefit, the charity ball, may not be given in the years to come, it is believed.

But since this is not a sentimental age, no one permitted the thought that these charity balls were over to lessen the gayety of the evening. And a very gay sight it was, and a colorful one, too. The ballroom balconies were entwined with southern smilax and decorated with poinsettia wreaths, and the supper room was lighted by tall red tapers. Of course most of the color was supplied by the bright-hued gowns of the women dancers.

In addition to dancing themselves, the guests were entertained with specialty dances. A group of buds of this year, gowned as pert pierrettes, gave a dance. Harriet Wainwright, Bettie Dunlap, Louise Evans, Bettie McCullough, Louise Reed, Jane Allderdice, Mary Marshall, Bettie Orr, Bettie Guiler, Rebecca Follansbee and Helen West were the representatives of the debutantes.

Attired in Russian blouses of white satin and trousers of black and white satin and white wigs, too, Marjorie Kimball, general chairman of the dance, by the way; Clodagh McCune, Mrs. Alexander Robinson and Frances Fitzgerald gave a tap dance.

And besides the girls who sold cigarets and who danced, some of the girls and some of the men of the younger set, too, were serving in the cafteria, to which place Honolulu had been transported. The cafeteria girls were Spence School alumnae. They wore frocks of bright-hued satin with the skirts fashioned from red and green and yellow and orchid ribbons.

I saw Josephine Stieren and Margaret Elliott selling cigarets. Josephine wore a quaint frock of flowered black silk trimmed with a sash tied in loops to simulate the bustle style, and ending in a train. Margaret's gown was of black lace over chiffon.

Mrs. Eleanor Walker in black chiffon, embroidered with gold sequins, was seen chatting with Mrs. J. W. Benning, of Montreal, the former Sara Helena Rose Frick, who wore brocaded gold cloth.

Mrs. William T. McCullough wore navy blue chiffon velvet; Mrs. J. D. King, black velvet with diamante decoration; Miss Marie Dermitt, black lace; Geraldine West, delicate pink moire with the uneven hemline outlined in blue; Frances Heckert, deep American beauty chiffon velvet; Rhoda Drew, black chiffon velvet with a corsage of orchids furnishing the only color in her costume; Mrs. William B. Leeds, of New York, Marjorie Kimball's grandmother, black lace and silver.

Active among the committee members last night was Miss Helen Rauh in white crepe and crystals. I saw her conferring with Mrs. George S. Ebbert in navy blue chiffon velvet, Mrs. H. Hughart Laughlin, in black velvet, and Mrs. F. T. Billings, in black crepe.

During the evening I saw nearly all the debutantes, and one sub-deb I noticed particularly, Nancy Allderdice. Her gown was of American Beauty tulle with the skirt of fuschia tulle extending in the back to the floor; Bettie Orr wore green chiffon, with a cocktail jacket of sequins; Katherine Schley, black net; Rhoda Gamble, pink taffeta; Helen West, peau de peche taffeta, with orchid for accent.

Joan Diehl, who is, of course, a sub-deb, was gowned in yellow moire, and Jane Sloan, green moire.

Many of the guests came very late, for there were several dinners. The junior Harry Darlingtons entertained as did the W. U. Follansbees.

AND still the entertainments for the school set are on! Mrs. E. B. Andrews, of Wilkins avenue, will give a bridge luncheon, I've learned, on Friday, January 4, in her home. And the guest of honor will be Mathilde Reed, daughter of the William McKennan Reeds, of Fifth avenue, who is home from Dobbs Ferry for the holidays.

By the way, Mrs. C. B. Gray, of the Bellefield Dwellings, will give a luncheon and theater party, I hear, for Mathilde one day next week.

THE marriage of Miss Sayde Jeannette Caplan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Caplan, of Northumberland street, and Hyman Lipman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Lipman, was solemnized yesterday at noon at the B'Nai Israel Synagogue in the study of the Rev. B. A. Lichter. The bride wore powder blue velvet with hat to match and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Lipman will be at home in the Wilson Arms after an eastern trip. Mr. Lipman is a graduate of Columbia University.

* * *

MRS. HARPER K. BEEGLE, of Gibsonia, who is now living in the Loutellus apartments, entertained a large party of friends today with a bridge luncheon in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. Mrs. Beegle and her small son, Harper, Jr., will leave January 20 for their home in Miami Beach, Fla.

* * *

MRS. REED'S niece, Frances Miller, of Detroit, will arrive in the city next week. Frances will be the house guest of Clarissa Reed, daughter of the S. Clarke Reeds, of Murrayhill avenue, for a short time, and later, Frances and her mother, Mrs. Harvy Miller, will spend a week with the William McKennan Reeds.

* * *

MRS. W. H. MURDOCH, of Denniston avenue, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Kathryn Keys Hamilton, to Frank R. Schaumberg, son of Mrs. Emilie B. Schaumberg, of Kentucky avenue

BABY GIRL, ABANDONED, IS NINTH CHILD, NOTE SAYS

A month-old baby girl abandoned in the nursery of the Sheridan Square Theater, at Penn and Center avenues, today was in Roselia Foundling Home. A note left with the child besought a good home for her. She was dressed in white clothes and apparently is in good health.

Passing a nursery on the second floor of the theater, Special Patrolman J. J. Quinn was attracted by cries and found the babe lying in bed with an envelope pinned to her dress.

The note, unsigned, read:

"Born November 29, at Carnegie, Pa. Take care of my baby, Katherine. I cannot keep her. It costs too much. I got eight more. My man has little work. Me wash clothes and get big bills. Maybe some one take her to good home."

Marc M'Dermott, Film Veteran, Ill

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 28.—(A.P.)—Marc McDermott, veteran screen actor, is reported critically ill in a Glendale, Cal., hospital. He is said to be suffering from a stomach and liver disorder.

According to hospital authorities, McDermott was stricken several months ago, but remained at his home in Hollywood until three weeks ago, when he was ordered to the hospital.

Blind Carrick Representative Proposes Legislative Pensions for Blind

MATTHEW A. DUNN READING BRAILLE

Representative Matthew A. Dunn, Carrick, who plans to propose state legislation to pension blind persons, is blind and reads books in Braille.

REPRESENTATIVE DUNN AND HIS NIECE

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

ONE of the interesting books just off the press is the latest issue of the Pittsburgh City Directory. It is interesting because the reader gets a new idea of the wide variety of names chosen for people and it also promotes a curiosity as to how strange names were invented. While I never have inquired, I am willing to wager a modest sum there is a book or a series of books detailing how various names came into being and the directory excites some interest in such books of explanation.

The city directory shows the wide fields from which names were chosen ever so long ago. The rainbow division includes the Greens, the Browns, the Blues. An industrial section could be made up of the Powers and Lights and Coyles. From the mills there come the Steels, the Irons, a Molder, and in the family of accessories and by-products there are the Watts, (Pittsburgh is made up of 80 Watts), the Cokes, the Gasses. There are Bricks and Mines, too, in the directory.

WHILE I have never read anything about the origin of names it is reasonable to presume that a lot of our names came from occupations. Many of the Smiths have ancestors, likely, who worked at a forge. It takes little imagination to assume that some of the Bricks were not Carpenters.

Of course, such deductions can be carried too far. I should not like to assume, for instance, that people named Boyle were thus described a long time ago because of skin and blood trouble. This is unlikely because a long time ago in Ireland the blood was blue and royal and it was a family that produced ever so many kings. Some of them were kings for a day, only, and the way they got crowned was not always exactly formal.

In Pittsburgh, the new directory shows there are 2,430 Smiths, 1,440 Jones and 1,530 Browns. Andrew Zywan is the last man named. Pittsburgh is credited with 675,180 inhabitants.

MIKE M'DERMOTT and Mike Stabile, county sleuths, were discussing "Sonny Boy." (That is a song. It came in on the heels of Romona and just before the current epidemic of influenza). Mike Stabile had a pretty good story about the origin of

"Sonny Boy." He said he heard that Al Jolson in real life actually had lost a little son and his grief prompted him to write "Sonny Boy."

The story is a pleasant one, but the truth is that the song was banged out in Tin Pan Alley on order from Hollywood.

McDermott, however, was not sure whether Stabile's version was right or wrong, but he did come up with an interesting thought. He said: "Well, if Jolson wrote 'Sonny Boy' because he lost a son it would take, then, an adding machine to discover how many mammies must have up and died on him."

Having seen Ned Wayburn's dancing show at the Nixon the column would like to say a word for the hoofers Mr. Wayburn has assembled. Hoofers have to be extra good and even then the public seldom appreciates the trying times of practice they must go through to learn their difficult and graceful and rhythmic art. All audiences ought to be compelled to try to do any three steps so they would appreciate how good those hoofers are.

IF THIS miserable weather keeps up Pittsburgh manufacturers will be quoting their prices trusty: "$100, F. O. G., Pittsburgh."

The point of this joke is that most prices are quoted: "F. O. B. Pittsburgh." The difference in the final letters G and B make up this joke.

FATHER KILLED, CHILDREN FILE TRIPLE SUIT

Their father having stepped from in front of one car only to be knocked down and killed by another, John H. Wagener and his sister, Jeanette Wagener, East street, minors, have brought a triple suit for $10,000 damages for the death of George H. Wagener.

The accident occurred June 10, while Wagener was crossing East street near the intersection of the Evergreen road. Edna B. Walper of Dormont was driving the car of Joseph W. Ziegler of Etna. Wagener jumped out of its way as the car made a "U" turn, only to be struck bya car driven by Edward T. Jones of East street, all three being made defendants in the action.

John F. Wagener, the next best friend of the minor children in question, brought the suit. Wagener was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital following the accident and died an hour after his arrival there.

JOYRIDING IN POLICEMAN'S AUTO PROVES EXPENSIVE

It cost James Abbott of 2420 Goble street $10 to learn that it does not pay to go joyriding in an automobile, especially if the machine is owned by a policeman.

Emergency Patrolman Louis Cardell, reporting at the South Side Police Station, parked his automobile in front of his home, South Ninth street, leaving his uniform, revolver, handcuffs and blackjaik in the machine while he went into his home for a few minutes before reporting for duty. When he returned the car was gone. Abbott, according to the South Side police, had been drinking when he took the car "for a ride." Abbott paid the $10 fine instead of the 10 days' jail sentence imposed upon him by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court, yesterday.

Husband, 91, Wife, 75, Die Within One Week

Death claimed husband and wife within a week in Bellevue, in the recent epidemic of illness.

Abram J. Brake, 91, of 64 South Bryant avenue died of pneumonia December 16. Seven days later, his wife, Mrs. Clara E. Scott Brake, 75, succumbed to the same disease. Several other members of the family were ill at the time.

Funeral services were held for the husband in Cray's undertaking parlors, December 18, and the body sent to Indianapolis, Ind., his former home for interment. On December 23 the wife died and funeral services were held for her Wednesday night with the Rev. Frank G. Helme, of the Bellevue Christian Church, officiating.

TRUCKS SMASH, ASKS $25,000

A collision between two trucks in Margaretta street October 23, last, has cost Dominic Navarro, trading as the Navarro Co., and William P. Acetta a $25,000 damage suit for personal injuries to Mrs. Frances Russo, 757 Chislett street.

Mrs. Russo was wheeling a baby buggy with an infant along the sidewalk when the trucks crashed and ran up on the sidewalk, knocking her down. In her bill of complaint filed in Common Pleas Court through her counsel, Nathan Franzos, she says she sustained hurts about her body, back and head and was badly shaken up. Her husband, Gaelano Russo, joins with her in the suit.

CHURCH HOLDS YULE PARTY

The first annual Yuletide party for all young people and constituency of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, will be held in the church auditorium, Alabama avenue, Dormont tonight.

Following an elaborate dinner, an interesting program of toasts, music and reception for young people home for the holidays will be carried out.

BLIND PENSION ACT APPROVAL EXPECTED

Declaring that a pension from the state is the only practical solution for the care of the blind, Representative Matthew A. Dunn, of Carrick, will return to the Pennsylvania Legislature next week prepared to carry out the legislation he initiated at the last session. He expects his proposed constitutional amendment authorizing a pension for the blind to be acted upon favorably, thus allowing the question to be voted upon by the people at a referendum within two years.

Of 10,000 persons in Pennsylvania who have lost their sight, about 3,000 would be eligible for a pension, according to Dunn. It has been suggested that a minimum allowance of $50 a month be made by the state. Nineteen states in the union now are assisting their blind population in this manner.

Having lost his sight in his boyhood, Representative Dunn has been a sympathetic worker in behalf of legislation for the blind. He apparently suffers little from his infirmity and carries on his business affairs and engages in political activities with unusual energy. By use of the Braille system, he reads all the standard books, and by the same method he makes notes for his own study. He enjoys cards, plays the piano and keeps abreast of the times through reading current publications for the blind.

"It is time to discard the antiquated ideas in dealing with the problem of care of the blind," said Dunn. "It is not fair to expect the average sightless man to compete with modern industrial machinery, and broom-making, carpet-weaving and similar jobs provided in the workshops for the blind are congenial to a limited number of the workers, and at best is only a makeshift. Among those who have lost their sight are many persons of independent means, while others are able to support themselves and their families in comfort. The state can well afford to contribute a pension toward those who need assistance."

Representative Dunn also is working for an adequate appropriation for the mothers' assistance fund. He pointed out that Allegheny county requires more money for this purpose and he is one of the champions of the cause in the Legislature. He also will sponsor bills for social reforms and improvement in prison management.

Mt. Oliver Firemen Make Miller Chief

Louis J. Miller was elected chief of the Mt. Oliver Hook and Ladder Company at its annual meeting held in the clubroom of the Municipal Building, Brownsville road, Mt. Oliver. George Hermann was elected assistant chief. The other officers are: George P. Kuehner, president; Felix Hermann, vice president; Carl Bachman, secretary; Fred Simmons, treasurer. Directors: Cyril Schaff, Elmer Smith, Felix Hermann, Andraes Hoffman and John Noonan. Fire captain, Louis Hermann; second lieutenant, David Mathews; third lieutenant, George Smith, and fire marshal, Ralph Mathews.

UNION SCHOOL SOUGHT AT WEST VIEW

The question of a union high school for West View, Ross township and other communities nearby will soon be broached by a committee recently named by the West View Parent-Teachers Association. The committee includes V. H. Walter, Edward Werner and George Keidaish.

"We expect to submit the proposal to the school authorities of Ross township, Highland and Ingomar," said Mr. Walter. "We had suggested to Ross township several years ago the advisability of a joint junior high school but they preferred to erect their own school. The result was that both West View and the township built junior high schools, the same question has now been raised regarding a senior high school.

"All these communities have to send their senior high pupils to the city or to Bellevue or other boroughs having facilities. We hope to obtain an expression soon on the proposal."

School buildings in West View are taxed to capacity at present, according to the borough authorities. An addition was recently completed to the Highland school but the rapid growth of the community soon will make new buildings necessary, it is said. The entire district is making rapid population strides, with the result that the school problem is a pressing one.

ROSS TWP. HAS BLDG. BOOM

George G. Antill, newly-appointed building inspector of Ross township, has issued permits for dwelling construction and repair work totaling $20,000 since December 1, he announced today.

Despite drawbacks due to the winter season, building is proceeding in the township, with prospect of a spurt next spring, Mr. Antill believes. Street and sewer improvements have stimulated building and those districts adjacent to Bellevue, West View and the city are rapidly becoming well populated.

Permits issued by Mr. Antill follow: William Menzell, for two-story brick veneer dwelling, 26 Renton avenue, estimated to cost $6,500; Ellis Reel, two-story frame dwelling in Reel plan, off Highland avenue, West View, $6,000; H. G. Ruhl, two-story frame bungalow, Bellevue terrace, $5,500; J. R. Rineman, one-story frame dwelling, Reel plan, $1,000; Harry Steurnagle, one-story frame garage, Oakdale avenue, $500; H. J. Mackey, repairs to garage, Benton avenue, $300.

ASKS FOR DRINK, ROBS HOME

After asking Mrs. Lucy Turner, 107 Main st., East Pittsburgh, for a drink of water, a man forced his way into the house and stole a pocketbook containing $25 and a money order for $3, according to a police report. Mrs. Turner pursued the man but he escaped her.

MONOXIDE GAS VICTIMS BETTER

Physicians at the Pittsburgh Hospital said today that the condition of Joseph Collucci, 24, who with other members of his family was overcome with carbon monoxide gas in their homes yesterday, is slightly improved. Joseph was the only one whose condition was serious.

Frank Collucci, 52, the father, and a sister, Jennie, 16, who were also taken to the hospital are almost completely recovered, it was said. The mother and five other children were slightly affected by the gas which escaped from a hot water heater.

Margaret McGurgan Dies in Braddock

Mrs. Margaret McGurgan, 68, of 807 Sixth street, Braddock, died early today in her home following a brief illness. She had been a resident of Braddock for 58 years. She leaves two daughters, Marie and Margaret Sweeney, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth McFadden, of 813 Fourth street, Braddock, from whose home she will be buried Saturday.

FLU EPIDEMIC IS HELD ON WANE

"The influenza epidemic seems definitely on the wane," said Dr. R. C. Conover, state medical inspector for Allegheny county, today. "The situation, except for pneumonia, is considerably better than it was 10 days ago."

Dr. Conover said he was without figures as to the North Boroughs, but expressed the opinion that the entire community was emerging from the grip of the flu.

"We are now getting the aftermath in pneumonia," said he. "This should show a decline soon. We always have pneumonia at this time of year but the increased number is no doubt due to the influenza."

Funeral Held for N. Braddock Woman

Funeral services were held today in St. Brendan's Catholic Church, Braddock, for Mrs. Mary Mooney, of 326 Hawkins ave., North Braddock, who died Monday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Vincent Showalter, of Detroit, Mich. Injured in Crash, Files $5,000 Suit

Frank Gross, a New Kensington businessman who lives in Tarentum, has brought suit against C. K. Murray, of Homewood, for $5,000 damages for two fractured ribs, due to an automobile collision, January 15. The accident occurred at Homewood avenue and Mead street, when it is alleged that the Murray car attempted to pass in front of the Gross car. It is alleged in the bill of complaint filed in Common Pleas Court that the brakes on the Murray car were faulty.

AUTO CRUSHED, SEEKS $10,000

Mrs. Mary Viragh, Forest Hills, through her counsel, Thomas M. Marshall, Jr., has brought suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Co. for $10,000 damages for running down her automobile, when, it is claimed, the auto skidded across the defendant's tracks in Ardmore boulevard, breaking three or four bones in her hip.

It is alleged in the bill of complaint filed in Common Pleas Court that the crossing was filled with holes; that it had snowed and sleet had fallen. It is alleged that if the motorman had kept the proper lookout, he would have observed the predicament of the Viragh machine. The accident occurred December 29, 1926.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.

This is a prosperous country, without a doubt. Did you read where some fellow got twenty-five thousand as a prize just for saying: "Make liquor so high that the bootlegger can't sell it at a profit"?

Then the producer will sell direct to the consumer, and it will only cut out the middle man, the same thing they have tried to do in every industry since the world began, and haven't succeeded.

Besides, where is your economic problem of finding work for your unemployed bootleggers?

Now if a man got twenty-five thousand for suggesting that, what ought some fellow get for suggesting one that would work?

A California boy suggested education, but it's the educated that's doing all the drinking.

Yours for bigger prizes and better suggestions, WILL.

$25,000 ASKED IN AUTO DEATH CAMPAIGN

Walter Rosenbaum, representing the Better Traffic Committee, yesterday appealed to City Council for a $25,000 fund to be used for educational work in the committee's drive against automobile deaths.

One feature of the campaign, Mr. Rosenbaum informed Council, would be the erection of 13 large signboards at the principal entrances to the city, calling attention of motorists to city traffic regulations.

Last year Council appropriated $12,500 for this educational work. The Better Traffic Committee had requested a total of $255,000 for 1929, but has reduced this to $244,000, after Mayor Kline's request that the appropriation be kept down to $228,000.

Council may close the budget today.

Lottie's Film Party Scrappers "Make Up"

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 28.—After "a little whoopee," as she expressed it, two friends of Lottie Pickford are friends again. She said Jack Daugherty and Daniel E. Jaeger, who had a Christmas party scrap at her home, have patched things up.

Real Estate

The Charles M. DuPuy residence, one of the representative mansions of the exclusive Morewood Heights district, East End, has been sold by the DuPuy estate to Attorney David I. McCahill. No consideration was disclosed, but the asking price on the property was placed at $110,000. The deal was made through W. B. Conley, of the Nicola Realty Company.

The house is a large center hall type containing 14 rooms. The lot is 60x400 feet, located on a private road known as Warwick terrace. It adjoins the homes of Arthur E. Braun, J. Horton Singer and Howard Heinz. After alterations are completed, Mr. McCahill will make the house his residence.

A large brick residence at 5866 Solway street, East End, has been sold by Myer Rosenthal to R. C. Cowan, according to reports in real estate circles. The lot is 58x198 feet. It is understood that the consideration was in the neighborhood of $40,000.

The Southern Avenue Land Company has sold to Stanley Belek 42 lots in the Crailo plan, Carrick. The Samuel W. Black Company closed the deal.

A brick and stucco dwelling and two-car garage in Beechwood boulevard, near Shaw avenue, Squirrel Hill, has been sold by Henry Hoehl, Jr., to Harry M. Hauer. The lot is 64x240 feet.

A lot in Chelton avenue, Brookline, has been sold through the Freehold Real Estate Company for the West Liberty Improvement Company to Andrew F. Baumgarten.

A property in Frankstown avenue, Thirteenth Ward, has been sold by Martin A. Fritsch to John H. Preston. The lot is 25x61 feet.

The C. L. Saxton Company has appointed W. T. Alexander as rental manager. Mr. Alexander has had about 15 years experience in the rent business in Pittsburgh.

A seven-room brick house and garage at 3152 Beechwood boulevard has been sold through the Charters Realty Company for Miss Louise Weyman to S. B. Charters.

A property in Kemper street, Fourteenth Ward, lot 50x100 feet, has been sold by Edward A. Stonick to Giacomo Orlando.

Building permit applications included:

Fourteenth Ward—Beechwood Improvement Company, eight brick double dwellings and eight concrete block garages, 2844-74 Beechwood boulevard, $68,000.

Twenty-seventh Ward—B. C. Weaver, three frame dwellings, 1415-19 Beckham street, $7,500; Martin Company, two brick dwellings, 3816-18 Wealth street, $8,000.

RAINBOW CHASING

•BY THOMAS EDGELOW•

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayre, pretty and young, craves luxuries of life. She meets handsome Carroll Dudley, artist and aviator and "man about town," at a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend. Frances warns Madge against Dudley's professions of love. She dines in his luxurious studio apartment, takes midnight air rides in his plane and accepts his suggestion to pose for him in the nude. After professing his love for her, which she accepts, it develops that he is already married. She is struck by the automobile of Michael Winchester, who falls in love with her. They are married. The event is one of startling magnificence. Madge had previously described to Michael her affair with Dudley. Later a barrier of misunderstanding which neither is able to surmount arises. Michael receives a cable to go to his sister in England. He fails to ask Madge to accompany him. Shortly after in a darkened theater a man takes the seat next to her. "Ecstacy! Ecstacy!" he whispers. It is Dudley's pet name for her. Refusing to be jilted by her coldness, Dudley forces her to ride with him through the park. An agreement is reached based solely on "friendship." She invites him to dinner. She deserts Michael and goes to Carroll. Michael is heartbroken when he discovers Madge has left him. Michael plans a trip to Africa in order that he might forget her. Madge is again deceived by Carroll and makes up her mind that she is through with him. Madge realizes now that she loves Michael and mistook thrills for love. Madge saves Celeste's life after she is bitten by a rattlesnake. Madge tells Martha about leaving Michael for a cad like Carroll. Martha tells her to go back to Michael, but she claims it is too late.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

AT SUPPER, Henry, who was generally silent, talked, as Martha put it, "nineteen to the dozen." He spoke of his crops, branched into politics, and returned to his farming plans for the following year. Madge realized that he was doing this on purpose. He wanted her to forget her troubles, and her heart warmed toward the simple, kindly fellow whose loyalty of friendship was standing so acid a code of ethics.

When he had driven off for town Madge insisted upon helping Martha with the dishes.

"I still feel," Martha said as she stooped over the sink, "that you ought to let this husband of yours know the exact truth of what has happened."

"You don't understand," Madge sighed. "Martha, I was no one of any importance. My late father never made any money, although the poor dear always hoped to make a great deal in some stupid speculation. We lived in the most modest way in this cheap little apartment. I told you about rushing out of Carroll's studio, blind with rage at his treachery, when Michael Winchester's car knocked me down. It was very much the story of the king and the beggar maid. Why, I couldn't believe all his kindness, Martha, and his generosity! I suspected him—suspected Michael, who has an old-time attitude of respect and chivalry towards women! He ved me so much that he laid at feet not only his wealth, means nothing to him, but old southern name of Winchester—and tradition means everything to him. And then I go and betray him! As Carroll has betrayed me! How can I return to a man like that and expect him to believe I really love him, having lost him, and that I have not actually been physically unfaithful? Can't you see that the fact remains that I did run away? It's no excuse really that I was fool enough to think Michael had been unfaithful to me! Can't you see that, Martha?"

"I can't!"

"But remember his tremendous social importance, Martha! His sister is the Duchess of Penndale. Michael is known in Europe as in this country. Why, I've made him the object of gossip.—"

"How do you know that?" Martha demanded.

"If you could have seen the reporters and cameramen when I married him, you'd realize the headlines there will be when Michael starts his lawyers working."

"And I repeat," Martha said doggedly, "that if he loves you—and didn't he give you this grand name of his to prove it?—he would forgive."

"No I've lost him," Madge protested. "Michael, who never showed me anything but love and kindness and consideration and gentleness and chivalry, is suffering still more, because when it's too late, I have awakened to my love for him, and the only one who doesn't suffer, though I'm not excusing myself, is the one who was the cause of most of the trouble—Carroll! Oh, that he should go free, Martha! That he should go free!"

"Don't be bitter about him," Martha counseled. Bitterness never helped anyone."

For an hour they talked, but Madge was firm in her determination. She must accept her punishment, accept the prospect of the lonely years ahead and later try to find in some kind of work a little forgetfulnes of all that she had lost.

But when Martha had gone upstairs to peep at the sleeping Celeste, Madge went out on the porch—and she heard the drone of an approaching plane. Carroll! Carroll! Returning earlier than he had expected.

Filled by a base desire that he dared dignify by the word "love," Carroll was returning to claim her. . . .

Suddenly, blindly, rage possessed her. She went into the house, and went quickly.

She knew that in a drawer of a desk in Henry's office was a loaded revolver. She hurried into the small room. The drawer was not locked. Within she found what she was looking for, and then she hurried out of the house, gripping the cold handle of the gun.

She hurried from the house, while the noise overhead grew nearer. She hurried towards the meadow where Carroll always landed—hurried, gripping the gun. . . .

Madge had proceeded only a few yards when she realized that the plane overhead was passing swiftly by. Already the sound of the motors was dying away toward the east. Then it was not Carroll.

But this was absurd, and Madge felt her absurdity! Because a plane was heard in the skies, she must jump to the conclusion that it was Carroll Dudley—as though in this day and age he were the only one to fly.

And her sense of the absurdity of the situation went deeper. She saw that to carry a revolver with which to shoot Carroll was a ridiculous gesture. She was dramatizing herself, behaving as though life were a moving picture. So her mood of bitterness and cold anger changed to one of sardonic reflection. She was inclined to laugh at herself.

But supposing it had been Carroll, and she had shot him, she reflected, as she walked back toward the house! What horror! She would have rid the world of a treacherous man, but she shuddered slightly as she pictured her own fate, the echo of which would have resounded in Michael's life! Fervently she promised herself that she would not be dramatic and ridiculous again.

So she was smiling enigmatically as suddenly she knew that all feeling for Carroll was dead. Why, now she could not even hate him. It seemed to her that all her bitterness and hatred had disappeared in that one melodramatic gesture when she had deliberately gone out from the house with murder in her heart. A strange feeling of quiet—unhappy calm—spread over her consciousness.

She was still smiling as she came up the porch steps and found Henry, who had just returned.

"What are you doing with my gun?" he asked, as she handed it to him.

Madged laughed a little hollowy. "Oh, I guess I thought I would shoot a snake—but I changed my mind."

"That's good." He smiled as he glanced in the direction in which the plane had vanished. "But, I don't believe a snake can harm anyone, Madge, as long as she isn't afraid of it, and as long as she knows it is a snake—which my baby didn't."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, December 29

AN unhappy and inauspicious state of affairs is read from the inimical, but not strong operations of the planets on this day. In personal as well as business activities things may assume inharmonious or obstructed conditions. Small worries, setbacks and disagreeable changes are shown, as well as involved domestic situations.

Those whose birthday it is may not look for a very constructive year, as things are likely to meet small obstructions and annoyances. The personal affairs may also assume disagreeable or disruptive features unless care be taken to maintain harmony and integrity.

A child born on this day may be prone to restless, impetuous and irritable traits of character which may bring personal inharmony or sensational publicity into its life.

Things are where things are, and, as fate has willed, so shall they be fulfilled.

Fancy-Free -:- -:- By Fanny Darrell

"HEART whole and fancy-free!" That's his constant boast to his friends. He laughs at them when their engagements are announced, plagues them about the various girls he sees them with and—secretly envies them. The whole trouble with him is that he knows so many and each is so charming that it's impossible for him to decide which one he cares most about.

So he decides he doesn't care particularly for any one of them and boasts about being "fancy-free" when all the time he's so envious he could cry. But that cannot last forever. Dan Cupid is ever on the watch for just such as he, and some of these days the various faces that floats through the smoke of his cigaret will merge into one—and that one the Dearest Face in all the world!

Lillian Tells Madge of Brixton's Characteristics

AS I laid down the letter which Lillian had asked me to read aloud to her I was conscious that the fantastic premonition she had had was gripping me. It was as if the sheet of paper with its bold chirography which was lying in my lap was a living sinister thing with powers of evil coiled within it. I lifted my eyes from the signature "Samuel Brixton," and met Lillian's intent gaze.

"You feel it, too," she said with the touch of the psychic which I so often have noticed in her.

"I feel that I don't like the letter, nor the writer nor his handwriting," I retorted, furious with myself that I should have to admit the same touch of fantastic hysteria with which my friend was patently affected.

"You're always cross when your brain has to come under the yoke of your imagination," she commented, putting out her hand for the letter. I watched her anxiously as she glanced quickly over its pages again, and then, crumpling it into a ball, threw it violently across the room.

"Let's forget it, she said. "I wouldn't touch a penny of any money Sam Brixton might pay even if his offer were genuine—which I doubt. In all these years I never have touched a penny of the small amount—Tom—left for Marion. She has been mine—all mine."

Her voice was shaken, raucous, and I knew she was reliving the arid years when her husband had kept her child from her. I waited for a long minute before I answered her, waited until I saw the bitterness fade out of her face.

"I know," I said at last, "and if you were the only one concerned, I should agree with you that the waste basket was the only place for that letter. But—Lillian—you must remember Marion is no longer a child. Have you any right to keep from her what may be—"

She threw up her head as if I had struck her and there was in her face the quick resentment with which she involuntarily meets unwelcome advice. But the next instant her eyes had softened, and her voice held disarming contrition.

"No, you are right," she said. "Marion is entitled to anything which may come to her through her father. I haven't any faith in this offer—knowing Sam Brixton, there's a tricq in it somewhere, I'm sure, but at least I must hear what the man has to say."

She crossed the room, retrieved the letter and looked at the heading again.

"Cleveland, Ohio," she said. "I heard he'd gone to the Middle West, but I never knew where.

"His was a queer combination of traits," she went on, with a restless tapping of the letter against her hand which told me how tense was her nervous strain, "I don't suppose it was so unusual either. Many men exhibit the same paradox. He was utterly unscrupulous, ruthless in business, but a devoted husband and a kind stepfather. No," at my involuntary look of surprise, for the references in the letter had given me the impression that the boy and girl of whom Mr. Brixton spoke were his own children, "neither Ronald nor Carolyn are his children. Their father, who, incidentally, made Helen thoroughly unhappy, died when Ronald was two and Carolyn a baby, leaving his family almost destitute. She found a position in Samuel Brixton's office, and later they were married. They always have been devoted to each other and the children were given his name and never have been made to feel for an instant that he is not their own father. If it were not for her knowledge of his shady business deals and her consequent mental suffering, she would be a very happy woman. Whatever may come of this I shall be very glad to see Helen again. She was my dearest friend in those days, but, of course, never like you."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Announcing It

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be married next June. Would it be correct for my parents to announce the engagement now?

2. Would it be all right to announce it at a party given for my brother?

3. Would it be proper for the groom-to-be to be present?

4. Will you please word an announcement for a sample?

READER.

YES, if they wish. This allows a quite conventional lapse of time between the engagement and the marriage.

2. This isn't especially good form, but if your brother doesn't mind combining the festivities and having the spotlight taken away from his party, there isn't any real objection to this being done.

3. Yes.

4. I am not sure what kind of announcement you mean here. Do you mean for the newspapers or for the party? An engraved engagement announcement, remember, isn't in good form. If you mean for the announcement at the party, a toast might be proposed by, for instance, your father, who might rise and say, "To Mary and her Joe," or something of the kind that would indicate the happy news to all present.

For the newspaper the announcement is most formally worded: "Mr. and Mrs. James Worthington, of No. 704 Remington avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Mr. Joseph Bradley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Bradley, of No. 53 Edgehill road, New Haven."

To this announcement may be added, if one wishes, facts about both families, facts that would be interesting and important in such an announcement, and also, if one wishes, the probable month of the marriage.

Wedding Expenses

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is a mother obliged to furnish the bedroom for her daughter when the daughter gets married?

2. Is the bridegroom supposed to pay half of the expenses of the wedding reception held at the girl's home, or should the girl's father pay for the reception?

H. C.

NO.

2. The girl's family or the girl herself pays the expenses of the wedding and the reception. The groom must not, under any circumstances, be allowed to contribute toward these expenses.

Subtle Hints

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. From which side do you serve the courses of a dinner, including drinks, and from which side do you remove the dishes?

2. In a book of etiquette it states that it is not correct for a girl to invite her escort in after her parents have retired. Is this still proper?

3. If it is rather late and a girl thinks it is time for her gentleman guest to leave, what is the proper thing to say?

NANCY.

THE usual and most convenient form of service is to serve the dishes at the guest's left, and to remove the plates from the right. All beverages are placed from the right, and at the right of the table.

2. Yes, ma'am!

3. A puzzling question, and one that every girl has to face some time—if her parents are as punctilious as they should be. If the guest is so absorbed as to forget his sense of time, he must be told as gently and courteously as possible that: "Ted, I must be up early in the morning, and so I'm afraid that I must be going to bed soon," or "Please don't think that I'm rude, but I have a very early appointment tomorrow, and I think that I must go to bed soon to prepare for it," or something of this sort. Anything that can be said doesn't seem ever to be subtle.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

"Leukemia" Baffles Medical Science

SOMETIMES we get discouraged about the slowness of medical progress, but, after all, real progress is being made. One by one the so-called "incurable" diseases are disappearing. During recent years we have seen remarkable progress in controlling the heretofore invincible diabetes. This is encouraging. But there are worlds yet to conquer. Among the serious ailments awaiting the successful assault of science is "leukemia."

DR. COPELAND

Leukemia is a rather uncommon disease of the spleen. Also it attacks the marrow of the bones and the lymphatic glands.

The spleen is one of the largest glands in the body, located on the left side of the abdomen. In leukemia it becomes greatly enlarged. With this condition there are disturbances in digestion. The stomach and intestines do not function as they should. As a result, there are sickness at the stomach, vomiting and diarrhoea. The appetite is lost.

Between the failure of nourishment due to vomiting, and the lack of nourishment due to bad appetite, there is gradual loss of weight and strength. The victim gives every evidence of serious illness.

In leukemia the white cells of the blood are greatly increased in number. On the other hand the red blood cells are decreased. This remarkable change in the blood shows in the skin of the sufferer. The natural color is gone. The skin becomes so white it is fairly waxy in appearance.

Nosebleed and other hemorrhages are not uncommon. There may be bleeding under the skin. Less frequently there is bleeding from the bladder and blood is seen in the urine.

The symptoms are gradual in their onset. They may be so inconspicuous that it is rare for the actual leukemia to drive the victim to a physician. The change in complexion or else the swollen abdomen may lead to medical consultation.

That the trouble really is leukemia is determined by an examination of the blood. Without a report from the laboratory, the determination is only guesswork.

Complete recovery from leukemia is not to be expected, but by proper care the life may be spared for years. I am speaking now of the chronic form. The acute form is not quite so hopeful.

This ailment is not infrequently associated with other diseases. Tuberculosis is one of them. Influenza or erysipelas sometimes complicates the case.

There are encouraging periods when the patient appears to grow very much better. Unfortunately, however, the symptoms reappear. These improvements are a bit misleading because they raise false hopes of complete cure.

All the "natural methods" must be used in the treatment. That is, there must be proper food, fresh air and sunshine, lots of sleep and freedom frome business care. All these matters are important. Medicine and X-Ray treatment will be employed. Actual removal of the spleen has been employed in a few instances.

As I suggested in the beginning, this is one of the diseases which demands continued study. It will have that study and we are under great obligations to the tireless research workers. They burn midnight oil and make great sacrifices to devote their lives to the study and cure of the serious diseases.

Some day, and I believe it won't be long postponed, the world will hear that the cause and cure of leukemia have been discovered. There will be great rejoicing, and I pray it may be soon.

Prudence Penny's Sunday Dinner Menu

Roast Duck.
Fresh Green Peas.
Eggplant and Pimento.
Timbales.
Chicory Salad, French Dressing.
Mince Meat Tart a la Mode
Coffee.

HERE is a specially nice dinner for Sunday.

In the matter of a roast duck, epicures prefer the young of the species cooked rare. If they are stuffed at all, then a potato stuffing should be used; putting it in while very hot. If you are one one of those who find a duck's flavor strong, then lay cored and quartered apples inside the cavity, to absorb the flavor.

Remove the apples before the duck appears on the table. Celery and onions may be placed inside the duck to season it, two tablespoons of chopped onion being used to every cup of chopped celery. Remember to remove the stuffing before sending the bird to the table.

Truss the duck, sprinkle it with salt, pepper and flour, and roast it in a very hot oven for from 15 to 30 minutes, providing the duck is young and is desired rare.

Full grown domestic ducks should be roasted at least one hour in an oven only moderately hot, and should be basted every 10 minutes. Serve it with giblet gravy and apple sauce.

EGGPLANT and pimento timbales are delicious, and just a little out-of-the-ordinary. Cut an eggplant into one-half inch slices, peel, quarter, and soak it in cold water to cover for two hours. Drain, cook in boiling water until soft. Drain, mash, and add ¼ cup of fat, ½ cup stale bread crumbs, ½ eggs slightly beaten, a few drops of onion juice, and salt and pepper to taste. Line timbale moulds with pimento and fill them with the egg plant mixture. Then bake for 15 minutes in a slow oven—from 225 to 250 degrees F.

Chicory is in the market now, and it makes a most delightful salad. There's a peculiar little tang to it, warranted to appeal to the most jaded appetite. Serve it with any dressing you prefer; personally, I like a rather sharp French dressing with it.

DOUGHNUTS—One cup sugar, 3 tablespoons shortening, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon mace, 1 tablespoon Blue Ribbon Malt Extract (hop flavored), 1 teaspoon salt, 4¾-5 cups pastry flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs slightly beaten. Mix Blue Ribbon Malt Extract, hop flavored, with milk and vanilla and beat a few seconds with egg beater. Add to sugar and egg mixture. Sift dry ingredients and add to mixture. Divide into fourths. Toss one-fourth onto a well floured bread board, roll to one-half inch thickness, cut with a doughnut cutter and fry in deep fat at 360-370 degrees F. or until a piece of bread dropped in fat will brown in sixty seconds. Lift doughnuts out of fat with a wire whisk egg beater and place on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Makes two dozen average size doughnuts.

PICKLED APPLES

HAVE you ever tried pickled apples? Then let me give you a recipe for them, and I'll wager they'll soon become a favorite dish in your home.

Pare the sweet apples, using about nine pounds. Set aside four pounds of sugar, and place the fruit in a crock, alternating with layers of sugar. Pour a quart of vinegar, a pint of water and the remainder of the sugar over, and let stand over night, covered.

Drain, and to the liquid add a quarter cup of broken cinnamon and cloves mixed, which you have tied in a bag, being careful to remove the soft heads of the cloves. Heat the liquid slowly till it comes to the boiling point, and when it is clear, add the apples; boil until tender but not soft.

Place in heated glass jars, using a perforated skimmer. Cover the jars. When the apples are all cooked and in the jars, let the syrup boil down a little, and, lifting the covers, pour the boiling syrup over the fruit and seal at once.

And, the pickled apples having been such a success, then try serving these pickled pears, which are equally delicious.

Seckel pears are best for pickling, but you can use the other kinds, too. Peel 10 pounds of pears, and set aside four and one-half pounds of sugar. Follow the same procedure as you did with the apples, placing the pears in a crock alternately with layers of sugar, and cover with a quart of vinegar and a half cup of water.

Let it stand covered, over night. Again tie the spices—one-quarter cup of broken cinnamon and cloves mixed—in a bag, drain the liquid and add the bag of spices to it. Heat to the boiling point and when clear, add the pears, boiling until they are tender but not soft. Place in the heated glass jars, cover, boil down the syrup and then pour it, boiling, over the fruit and seal immediately.

Prune relish is a particularly edible way to serve the lowly prune. Soak a half pound of large prunes over night, drain off part of the water, put them in a double boiler and steam until tender. Remove the stones. Now cook three-quarters cup sugar with one-quarter cup weak vinegar and a few whole spices tied in a bag until the syrup is thick. Pour over the prunes.

PARTY SANDWICHES—Take a sandwich loaf of bread and cut it in slices lengthwise, removing the crusts. On the first slice, after buttering it, spread chopped green peppers which have been mixed with lemon mayonnaise. Butter the next slice and spread with a mayonnaise and chopped pimento mixture, flavored with a little chili sauce. The third slice may be of graham bread, buttered and spread with chopped egg yolk and mayonnaise mixed. Cover with the fourth slice, and spread the top with cream cheese, rather thickly, dotting the top with half-walnut meats. The effect is like an iced layer cake. Now cut right through the bread at intervals of about two and a half inches square, and serve.

MARSHMALLOW PUDDING—Beat a cup of double cream until stiff. Add three tablespoons sugar and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Fold in these fruits—one cup malaga grapes, 24 marshmallows cut in pieces, one-half package pitted dates, one-half package figs cut in small pieces, one-half can shredded, drained pineapple, cut up, one-half cup nuts; put in a cold place for an hour. Serve in individual glasses and garnish with cherries.

A&P
ESTABLISHED 1859
"WHERE ECONOMY RULES"

We wish all a Happy and a Prosperous New Year, and promise that during 1929 we will continue to carry on the policies of this company which have meant so much to the millions of people who patronize our stores.

Every year, since 1859, when the business was founded, definite progress has been made. We are now operating the largest and the most efficient chain of food stores in existence, and are the recognized, and the undisputed leaders in chain store merchandising. You may be interested in knowing of the policies which have been and are responsible for our success and make our stores the best place for you to deal.

The most significant policy is this: Strive always to give the best values. To execute it we follow two main procedures. First we get merchandise known for its quality (such as nationally advertised brands of goods) and second, we sell everything at a very small margin of profit. It is policies like this one that we promise to adhere to during 1929, guaranteeing you good values throughout the year. We hope we may see you often and prove the success of our efforts.

Close Call for Goslin Almost Rivals Merkle DeVos' Title Chance | Slump of Buc Hurlers Sham Battle Failure Fade-Outs in Baseball

YANKEES WILL GO WAY OF OTHERS

BACK in 1908 the New York Giants lost the National League pennant because Fred Merkle failed to touch second base. Twenty years later, Goose Goslin might have lost the American League batting championship of 1928 through a similar oversight in the formality of touching first base in running out a two-base hit. The difference lies in the fact that Merkle was caught, whereas Goslin got away with it.

Goose Goslin

At least that's the Goslin story that comes from St. Louis following the publication of the official American League averages, which gave the year's batting crown to the Washington outfielder. Of course, it may be charged by the Goose's followers that that was only the way it looked to the partisan eyes of Heinie Manush's friends in the Mound City, who were pulling hard for the star slugger of the Browns to beat out Goslin for the title. But the truth of the tale is vouched for by more than one St. Louis diamond critic with a reputation for fairness, the claim being made that if the slip had not escaped the notice of the Brown players Goslin would have been called out instead of being given a hit.

IT IS related that in the final game of the season between the Browns and Senators on September 30, Pitcher Harold Wiltse had the over-anxious Goslin going after bad balls in the ninth inning, but made the mistake of sending one right down the middle of the slot, with the result that Goose popped a drooping hit into short right field.

Goslin reached second base on the safety and was credited with a two-bagger, but it is said that he hasn't touched first base yet. Lu Blue, the St. Louis first sacker, was running desperately out into right field in an effort to catch the pop fly, and none of the other Browns on the field appeared to notice the slip, but according to other observers the Washington swatsmith cut first base.

AS the umpires, under such conditions, cannot call a runner out unless the opposing side plays the ball to the base not touched or tags the runner with it before another pitch is delivered by the moundsman, Goslin got away with his miscue.

If he had been caught and called out, however, it would have been a companion-piece to the Merkle play as a costly slip. For it was by a margin of only one point that the Goose won the batting championship, his final average being .379 to Manush's .378, and if he had lost that final hit of the year his official mark would have been .377 instead of .379, and the batting crown would have gone to his rival.

Rene DeVos

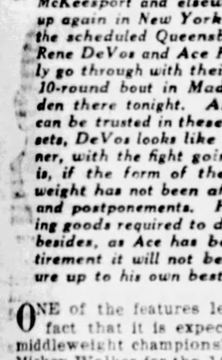
IF THE jinx that has been playing havoc with fight cards in Pittsburgh, McKeesport and elsewhere, doesn't bob up again in New York to interfere with the scheduled Queensberry proceedings, Rene DeVos and Ace Hudkins will finally go through with their twice-postponed 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden there tonight. As far as the dope can be trusted in these days of fistic upsets, DeVos looks like the probable winner, with the fight going the limit. That is, if the form of the Belgian middleweight has not been affected by lay-offs and postponements. He appears to possess just the kind of fighting goods required to defeat an opponent of the Hudkins type, and, besides, as Ace has been serving notice of an intended early retirement it will not be surprising if the "Wildcat" fails to measure up to his own best standards of the past.

ONE of the features lending interest to tonight's encounter is the fact that it is expected to produce a logical challenger for the middleweight championship. The plan is to match the winner with Mickey Walker for the 160-pound title, provided, of course, that some miracle worker can succeed in overcoming the strong disinclination that Walker has steadily shown toward defending the honors which any real champion is supposed to risk at reasonable intervals.

In this connection, DeVos would be adding an unusual chapter to ring history if he were to defeat Hudkins tonight and then wrest the championship from Walker. For according to the Belgian's own diary, it is exactly 10 years since he went into his first glove battle, his career in the roped square having begun on December 28, 1918, in Belgium. Rarely does a fighter reach the championship heights after so long a period. Most of them start downhill after four or five years in fast company. Probably the only record to beat that of DeVos should the latter win a world title now would be that of Rocky Kansas, who had been fighting 14 years when he captured the lightweight title in 1925.

THAT a slump on the part of their pitchers, due largely to illness or injuries, was the main reason why the Pittsburgh baseball club did not make a better showing in 1928, is attested again by the official hurling averages of the National League, made public today.

Among the first 15 flingers in the league, ranked according to average number of earned runs allowed per nine innings, the name of only one Pittsburgh slabman appears, the Pirates' lone representative in that select set being Burleigh Grimes. He was the only local chucker to allow an average of less than three earned runs per game.



Tex Rickard

Carmen Hill is sixteenth in the table, with a mark of 3.53, and Remy Kremer ranks as low as No. 23, with the poor record of 4.64, whereas he has always been found at or near the top. The loss of form by Hill and Kremer, to say nothing of the misfortune of Lee Meadows, easily explains why the Bucs did not finish higher than fourth in spite of having the strongest attack in the majors.

OFFICIAL announcement by Tex Rickard and his associates that the 10-round match between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling had been clinched for February 26, at Miami Beach, Fla., probably followed a realization by the promoters that they were not fooling anyone with the sham verbal battle between Rickard on one side and Sharkey, Johnny Buckley and Jimmy Johnston on the other. The suspicion is stronger than ever that the match was closed long ago, and that last week's war of words, in which it was made to appear that Rickard and Sharkey were at swords' points and never would be able to get together, was intended only for the purpose of attracting attention to the proposed fight and getting a lot of publicity. No one will deny that such a match needs plenty of it.

DESPITE the fact that the Sharkey-Stribling affair doesn't rate as being worthy of much more than a preliminary place on a heavyweight card of real class, Rickard professes to be confident of drawing a $500,000 gate with it in Florida. "A big heavyweight attraction is always good for one large gate in a neighborhood where it is something new," he reasons.

"Look at what we did in Philadelphia with the first Dempsey-Tunney fight after it was chased out of New York. It was the same way when Jack and Gene met again in Chicago. The explanation is that it

BURLEIGH HARDEST WORKER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

DAZZY VANCE, of the second-division Dodgers, who is generally regarded as the best drawing card in the National League, finished first among the league's sharpshooters in effectiveness during the past season, according to the official figures given out today.

Ol' Dazmarine failed to win as many games as Larry Benton and Burleigh Grimes, but he allowed fewer earned runs per game than either of his rivals, both of whom copped 25 victories. Benton had the best mark in the league as computed from percentage of victories. Larry lost only nine games.

BLAKE NEAR TOP

Sheriff Fred Blake, of West Virginia, one of Joe McCarthy's aces in Chicago, was second to Vance in effectiveness. The Sheriff had the best year of his career with 17 victories and 11 defeats.

The physical qualities of Grimes stand out in his season's performances. The Duke of Burleigh took part in 48 games, which was high in this phase of play; he pitched the most innings, 331, and tied with Benton for complete games with 28. Grimes led the Bucco pitchers on the earned run plan, Burleigh being eighth in the league's list.

NEHF IN COMEBACK

Five pitchers tied for total shutouts with four each. They were, Grimes, Pirates; Vance, Dodgers; Blake, Cubs; McWeeny, Dodgers, and Lucas, Reds.

Vance whiffed 200 batters, giving him the leadership in strikeouts for the seventh year in succession. Dazzy has whiffed 1,338 batters in the seven-year period.

BROKE-OMAN COP TOURNEY

LONG BEACH, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—An all-Minnesota duo—Frank Broke, of St. Paul, former public links champion, and Oscar Oman, pro, of Alexandria, slipped home with a best ball score of 64 to win the amateur-professional tournament, preliminary to the $5,000 Long Beach open which gets under way today.

In the play, held over the Virginia Country Club course, Broke and Oman led a colorful field of more than 300 players, including four feminine mashie wielders of note. Leo Diegel, national professional champion, paired with Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, and runner-up in the 1928 national women's championship to turn in a card of 65, in a tie with two other pairs for second place. Harry Cooper of Buffalo, teamed with Dick Smith of Los Angeles, and Francis Gallett of Wisconsin, teamed with Carl Kadaic of Los Angeles, also had 65's.

Tommy Armour, former national open king, with Mrs. Gregg Lifur of Los Angeles, California women's titleholder, as his partner, stroked the difficult layout for a best ball of 66. Chet Beer of Bakersfield, Cal., and John De Paolo of the Rancho Country Club, near Los Angeles, who won the $1,000 San Gabriel amateur-pro event yesterday, also had a 66, as did several other teams.

Walter Hagen and his feminine partner, Mrs. Harry Pressler, former Western women's champion, could do no better than a 72. Their score was bettered five strokes by the other odd pair, Miss Kathleen Wright, of the Flintridge Country Club, of Pasadena, Cal., and Bob McDonald, Chicago finalist.

BURLEIGH GRIMES

Grimes, star pitcher of the Pirates, led the National League in the number of games participated in by hurlers during the past season, appearing in 48. He also pitched the most innings and tied Larry Benton in winning the most games and pitching the most complete games. Vance led the league in effectiveness, allowing only 2.09 earned runs per nine innings. Dazzy also led the league in strikeouts for the seventh consecutive season, the official pitching averages, published today, reveal.

FOWNES, PARSONS ARE BEATEN AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 28.—Former amateur champions mean little in the life of youthful R. Hewitt Swoope, Philadelphia boy golfer. Yesterday Swoope won a stirring 1 up victory over William C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, Pittsburgh, despite the fact that the latter was formerly national amateur champion, captain of the American Walker Cup team and president of the U. S. G. A.

Fownes, who won the medal in the twenty-sixth annual mid-winter tournament here, was expected to handle young Swoope easily, but he just became another of the veterans who are passing along before the march of the youthful golfers. The two were never more than a hole apart.

The cards of the Swoope-Fownes match:

Swoope—
Out	4	5	5	3	6	4	3	5	4	—39
In	4	5	5	5	5	4	5	4	4	—41—80
Fownes—
Out	5	3	5	3	5	5	4	5	4	—39
In	4	5	6	4	5	3	6	3	5	—41—80

Don Parsons of Youngstown, another veteran from the West Penn tri-state district, suffered the same fate as Fownes. He lost to Richard H. Wilson, of Southern Pines, 5 and 3.

In the second division, J. B. Blackburn, of Oakmont, avenged the defeat of Fownes, his clubmate, by defeating Swoope's brother, W. I. Swoope, of Merion, 2 and 1.

In the fourth division J. H. Bialas, of Pittsburgh, won by default from Lawrence Barr, also of Pittsburgh.

EDGEWOOD BEATEN

The Enoch Rauhs nosed out the Miele-Franchina Club, 27 to 25, before the largest crowd ever to attend a County League game in Columbus Temple, last night. The Rauhs led, 13 to 7, at half-time, but the Mieles came back to gather in 13 to 6 points in the third quarter and kept within two points, the margin of victory, of the winner in the last quarter. The lineup:

Sharkey Signs To Meet Strib Feb. 26

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Jack Sharkey, Boston's sailor heavyweight boxer, last night signed to meet Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., at Miami, Fla., on February 26, 1929, in a bout to be staged by Tex Rickard. Johnny Buckley who handles Sharkey's affairs, made the announcement and said that the Boston Tar had been given a guarantee of $100,000 with a privilege of 25 per cent of the gate receipts.

Buckley emphasized the fact that, while no referee had been agreed upon, both he and Sharkey objected to the presence of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, as third man in the ring. He said they would not accept Dempsey under any circumstances.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Tex Rickard, returning here today from New York, immediately went into conference with his Miami Beach associates and said he would have a definite statement to make regarding the heavyweight eliminations late this afternoon.

It was reported from various sources that negotiations virtually have been completed for a bout here between Jack Sharkey, Boston's seafaring mauler, and Young Stribling, the Macon, Ga., contender for the heavyweight crown, on February 26.

Yale to Invade Chicago in 1931

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—For the first time in history, Yale's football team will invade the West in 1931, playing the University of Chicago eleven on Stagg Field. The date has been set for October 17. Announcement of the game was made at a luncheon of Yale fathers and sons given by the Yale Club of Chicago yesterday.

Two purposes moved the Yale University athletic board, which verified the announcement, to schedule the game. Yale graduates are to hold a convention in Chicago on that date and the game would commemorate the fortieth anniversary as University of Chicago football coach of Amos Alonzo Stagg, one of Eli's greatest football stars.

CARL MERTZ DIES

Funeral services for Carl H. (Hick) Mertz, 21 former Schenley High football and baseball star who died Tuesday of pneumonia, will be held tomorrow at his home, 253 Halket street, Oakland. Mertz, well known in local amateur sports circles, played on the basketball and mushball teams of St. Peter's Lutheran Church.

SLATS, DELANEY SIGN

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Tom McArdle, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, announces he has completed negotiations for the February 1 bout between Jack Delaney, former light-heavyweight champion, and Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo.

OLD-TIMERS BANQUET

Members of the famous Sterling football team, which represented Wilkinsburg on the gridiron 30 years ago, will hold a reunion and fanfest tonight in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg. More than 15 of the original members are expected to attend.

By CARL W. SHATTO.

SEVERAL seasons ago Mr. Robert Burns, a canny Scot who mixed philosophy with his poetry, penned off a few lines deploring the utter disregard which the best laid plans of mice and men showed for the traffic signals. At the time that Bobby gave a thought to the waywardness of the schemes of rodents and humans, he was doing a little plowing on the Burns farm, so it is not likely that he was thinking of hockey, but his immortal lines well might be used in describing the National League game at Duquesne Garden last night, when the Pirates, striving for their third straight triumph and a third-place tie, and introducing a new star, bowed in 2-0 defeat to the Maple Leafs of Toronto.

To the neutral spectator the game may have appeared a fair exhibition of the ice sport, but to the Pirates it was little short of disaster. They had an exceptionally potent incentive to win and they had a crowd of almost capacity proportion to lend them moral support, but they were unable to strike a victory stride, and when they rushed from the Craig street arena to the P. & L. E. station to start for Montreal, where they play the Maroons tomorrow night, their grips were well packed with the bitterness of unexpected defeat.

DEFENSE PROVES STUBBORN

Freddie Frederickson, star center, who became a Pirate last week when Benny Leonard sent Mickey MacKay and $12,000 to the Boston Bruins, made his local debut as a wearer of the Blue and Gold and showed the class expected of him, but even Freddie was unable to penetrate the Leafs' stubborn defense. The passing of Frederickson and Darragh was brilliant and several times Freddie and Mike teamed up in combination plays that gave the Bucs great scoring opportunities, but on each and every occasion

MIDGET O'DOWD CLASSY FOE FOR RODGERS

MIDGET MIKE O'DOWD, of Louisville, who meets Jackie Rodgers in the 10-round windup of the New Year's Day matinee at Motor Square Garden, is one of the best bantams in the country. He has boxed all over the land and has proved a big card, especially in California. He is a fast-moving boxer and a hard puncher and will have considerable of an edge in the matter of experience on Rodgers, who fought his way to main bout prominence with his whirlwind exhibition against Dan Billick, of Duquesne, at the Garden Christmas afternoon. Rodgers and Billick were rematched for next Tuesday, but Billick had to withdraw because he will not be able to recover from injuries suffered in the bruising fight in sufficient time to be ready to go to the post again so soon.

The O'Dowd-Rodgers bout will be well backed up. Tom Malco, of Soho, and Phil Scello, of McKeesport, welterweights, will box the eight-round semi-final; Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, meets Johnny Michaels, of the North Side, in the six-round preliminary and there will be two four-round bouts, Harry Taylor, of the North Side, boxing Jackie Murray, of the Hill, and Max Ziff and Charley Sabol, local heavyweights, just out of the amateurs, clashing to settle the question of supremacy between them.

FLU KNOCKS OUT SHOW

The influenza epidemic caused Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, to call off his boxing show scheduled for last night when the boxers appeared to be weighed and examined at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Ken Hargreaves, of New Kensington, who was to box U. S. Carpentier subbing for Battling Gizzy who has the flu, also was under the weather when he faced the doctor, and a couple of the other boxers were not at their best. Rather than risk a disappointing show, it was decided to dispense with the program entirely. McGirr has had his troubles since the influenza epidemic began. He has had two bouts between Howard Mayberry and Davey Adelman canceled on this account and now has had to dispense of an entire card. He had to make his opening bout for last night's show five times. Every time he landed an opponent for one boxer the first boxer would report sick.

Jack Dillon, of Nashville, and Henry Firpo, of Louisville, have been rematched for the 10-round main bout at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, New Years afternoon. Dillon won the decision over Firpo there Christmas Day and Firpo claimed he was not at his best because of a heavy cold and asked for a return battle. U. S. Carpentier and Frankie Rio have been rematched for the semi-final.

AMATEURS BOX TONIGHT

The second monthly amateur boxing show of Flynn's Gymnasium, downtown, will be held this evening. Six bouts are listed, as follows: George Chambers, Willow Club, vs. Mike Koppin, North Side A. C.; Steve Gullia, Clairton, vs. Frank McCormack, Willow Club; Carl Montabano, Braddock Library, vs. Eddie Hebner, Clairton; Barney Powers, Braddock Library, vs. Louis Santucci, North Side A. C.; Johnny (Duke) Rooney, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., vs. Ray Harkins, Flynn's gym, and Johnny Bittner, Eighteenth Ward A. C., vs. Bob Fratrolla, Clairton.

Joe Sekyra meets Cuban Bobby Brown, Negro light-heavyweight, in the main bout of an all-star show at the Coliseum in Chicago tonight. In the other bouts, Jack McCarthy boxes Izzy Grove, Lope Tenerio meets Iowa Joe Rivers and Eddie Shea boxes Georgie Nickfor.

Friends of Emmett Rocco, the Ellwood City heavyweight boxer, will tender him a testimonial banquet in his home town tomorrow night at which Buff Donnelli, Duquesne University football captain, will be the principal speaker. Rocco boxes Bud Gorman at Akron, New Year's eve.

V. P. I. COACH WEDS

BROCKTON, Mass., Dec. 28.—(INS.)—Roy E. (Red) Randall, captain of the 1927 Brown University eleven, and Miss Adelle Holbrook, of West Bridgewater, were married more than 13 months ago, it was revealed here. Since graduating from Brown last year, Randall has been football, baseball and basketball coach at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

OFFICIALS CHANGED

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP.)—A change in the list of officials for the New Year's Day football clash at the Rose Bowl here between California and Georgia Tech, was announced today. H. A. Badenoch, coach of Inglewood (Cal.) High School, will substitute for Frank Birch, as referee. Birch wired he would be unable to officiate.

RAUHS, LIGHTERS MEET ON FLOOR TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

REVENGE will be the objective of the Rauh Club tonight when it invades the South Side Market House to meet Duquesne Light in the only contest on the Allegheny County League schedule.

The Rauhs were defeated in their opening County League game by the Lighters and they are bent on turning the tables on Kemp McNutt's quintet on the Market House floor tonight.

Having chased the jinx that seemed to have followed them every time they appeared on the Market House floor by the decisive manner in which they recently defeated the Goldensons, the Rauhs are confident they can take the measure of the Commercial - Industrial League champions.

Besides the main contest, the Red McMahon club will meet the Happy club in the preliminary attraction.

DRIBBLES

Westminster College, last year's Tri-State Conference champion, will make its first appearance of the season in the Pittsburgh district tomorrow night when it engages the Community House A. A. U. titleholder on the Community House floor. The preliminary game, featuring the Community Reserves and the National Music five, will start at 8 o'clock.

The Goldensons, strengthened by the return of Whitey Littell to the lineup, hope to check the winning streak of the Duquesne Lafayettes in the County League tomorrow night. The two clubs are scheduled to meet in a league contest at the South Side Market House. If the Lafayettes succeed in defeating the Goldensons they will virtually clinch the first-half championship. In their first meeting this season the Lafayettes scored a one-point victory.

The close of the second week in the P. & O. League again finds the contenders closely bunched for the championship. No team has been able to win consistently, and with the Mangans finally in the victory column a great race down the home stretch is predicted by the followers of the league. Unless County League teams find some way to check the Lafayettes, the P. & O. loop promises to steal the play away from its rival organization.

The Oakland Vagabonds, boasting a record of seven victories and three defeats, is ready to meet all light first-class teams. Call Schenley 1617 between 6 and 7 p. m.

The Whoopee Club will meet the P. N. A. team of the South Side, tonight at Liberty Hall. Light first-class teams desiring games write Al Baird, 95 South Fifteenth street, or call Hemlock 1338.

Heinz House and Young Men's Hebrew Association will clash tomorrow night in an Institutional League game. The game is scheduled on the Y. M. H. A. floor and will be preceded by a preliminary between the reserve squads of both institutions.

DUKES BATTLE ALUMNI FIVE TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER.

Pittsburgh's first big week-end of college basketball will open tonight with action on the Duquesne University gym court as the Dukes and the Red and Blue Alumni tossers meet in their annual game. Tomorrow evening Pitt and the University of Iowa will clash on the Stadium pavilion floor, offering to local fans the first major league contest of the campaign.

Doyal Plunkitt.

The Duke-Alumni battles are always worth while seeing, more so, in fact, than most pre-season games. The Old-timers, as we have quaintly nicknamed the Alumni, annually manage to recruit a galaxy of stars, though it is never possible to name the lineup until the squad appears on the floor. Poker games, dates and evenings "in" with the wives makes this an impossibility.

It is understood that Richard (Himself) Shrading, Roy O'Donovan, Walter DeMaria and possibly Dr. Ollie Kendricks will be in uniform tonight. Witt, Rozanis and Chuck Cherdini are also being counted on for duty, and Coy Harrison usually managed to crawl into a suit when an opportunity presents itself to play against the varsity. They like to talk to Chick Davies—and he loves it.

IOWA POWERFUL

This Pitt-Iowa game should be a classic. Iowa is enjoying high ranking in the West and is being picked as one of the three most likely Big Ten champions. Sporting a veteran aggregation, headed by Capt. Francis Wilcox and ex-Capt. Twogood, the Hawkeyes will present one of the most rangy quintets that it has been Pittsburgh's good fortune to see for some years. The team will be bigger than that crack Muskingum five of two years ago, and that, fellow sinners, was a BIG ball club.

Journeying through the Middle West last year, Pitt stopped off at Iowa City and banged out a 44-40 triumph at the expense of the Hawkeyes in an extra period setto. It is the fond hope of the Big Tenners to secure revenge for this defeat, and to win said revenge right here in Pittsburgh.

Despite there being five lettermen on the squad, only two seem to have made the grade this season. Three sophomore basketeers, Nelson, a forward, and Geneva and Jebens have fought their way to varsity berths over the strenuous opposition as offered by five veterans, Kinnan, Davis and Plunkitt. This trio is slated to start against Pitt tomorrow night.

Iowa has played three games so far, totaling 97 points against 50, a defensive scoring average of 16 2-3 points, which is very good. Nelson, the sophomore forward, is the leading scorer, with 19 points in the three games. Spradling and Plunkitt stars forwards, are next in line with 14 points each.

Coach Barry will bring a squad of 10 men here, including Capt. Wilcox and Wagner, centers; Twogood, Nelson, Plunkitt and Spradling, forwards, and Geneva, Jebens, Kinnan and David, guards.

Hyatt—Pitt.
Ryan—Grove City.
Paulsey—Geneva.
White—Waynesburg.
Hamilton—Wash-Jeff.
High—Carnegie Tech.
Stump—West Virginia.
Delahunty—Westminster.
Lubic—Duquesne.

SCHEDULE HEAVY

Next week will be a full one for college basketball hereabouts. Pitt plays Indiana University here Tuesday night and Wash-Jeff meets Temple at Philadelphia in the afternoon. The Dukes play Salem here Wednesday and Muskingum Saturday. Tech opens with Waynesburg at Waynesburg Friday and then hops over to Morgantown for a game Saturday. Geneva and Muskingum clash Thursday. Grove City plays Westminster Friday in one of the most important games of the early season and one that may have a direct bearing on the district championship.

TWO DISTRICT LEAGUE TILTS TOMORROW

By TOM BIRKS.

Two games will be staged in the District League tomorrow afternoon. The Pittsburgh club will meet Twin Boros at the North Side grounds. In connection with this game, Tom Dolan requests all Pittsburgh players to report at the Lafayette Hotel at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Twin Boro is a much improved club and the Blue and White will be extended to take the points.

In the other game, Union Switch and Signal eleven will try to prove that last Saturday's win over the Pittsburgh Rovers was no fluke. This time, however, the game will be staged at Leslie Park and that is different. No matter how bad the Rovers play away from home, they always seem able to strut their stuff around the home grounds.

Homewood playgrounds will see the replay of the national amateur cup game between Clan Douglas and Corinthian elevens. Douglas won the first game, but Marshall was found to be a professional and the national committee ordered the game replayed. This session should draw the largest crowd of the day.

Down in the Beaver Valley League two games will be staged. The American Bridge team will meet the Ambridge Independents. Well, a local derby like that should attract a large crowd in Steve Horlick's town.

The other battle will find New Brighton and Harmony clashing at Baden. It is stated that the Beaver Valley League is playing to wonderful crowds. In the days of the old Ambridge team some great games were played at the Bridge grounds, and with a big soccer element down the Ohio River, the games should go over big.

There will be a meeting of the West Penn Valley Referees' Association tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Secretary Hulet is back from his hunting trip. The writer, however, has not yet received the usual deer.

Illinois Boxing Receipts $998,311

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP.)—Boxing in Illinois netted $998,311.14 in receipts for the year ending December 1, Paul Prehn, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, announced yesterday. Of this amount the state received $99,831.02 in taxes.

The best month of the year from the tax standpoint was June, when 44 contests brought the state $16,252.61.

Central Trade Golf Event on for Tonight

The Central Trade Golf Association will hold a golf tournament tonight in the Pittsburgh course of National Indoor Links, Smithfield Building, at Sixth and Smithfield streets, Manager John Martin has announced.

It is expected that at least 100 golfers will participate in the contest, which will be at medal play for numerous prizes.

New York, Illinois Commissions in Pact

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(INS.)—The New York State Boxing Commission and the Illinois Boxing Commission have reached an agreement whereby the decisions of one body will be respected by the other, according to James A. Farley, one of New York's three boxing commissioners.

HARPSTER, GETTO ON CONSENSUS ELEVEN

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

AFTER all of the all-America teams, now comes the super-all-America aggregation, and Pittsburgh places two men on it. They are Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech's quarterback, and Mike Getto, Pitt tackle. The team is a consensus eleven, representing a composite team of the leading all-America selections. It includes, among others, Grantland Rice's team, the one picked jointly by Pop Warner, Knute Rockne and Tad Jones, the elevens of the Associated Press and International News Service, and choices of Bob Zuppke, Dan McGugin and Walter Eckersall.

The players are rated on a point basis, with a possible total of 200 points per man. Red Cagle, of Army, a team that lost two games, alone has a perfect average, with Ken Strong, of New York University, second, with 188, and Harpster and Carroll, the latter of Washington, tied at 168. Pund, the center, of Georgia Tech, has the fourth highest total, 175, and Pommerening, of Michigan, is next, with 172. Getto makes the grade with the smallest total, 122.

A second team also is picked on the same basis. The two teams follow:

Rene DeVos, the Belgian middleweight, should demonstrate his right to challenge Mickey Walker for the middleweight championship when he meets Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska Wildcat, in their 10-round battle in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight. The bout has been twice postponed because of a carbuncle on DeVos' neck, having been originally scheduled for December 10, and, unless DeVos has suffered from his illness and layoff, he figures to add the Ace to his list of victims, which already includes such notables as Dave Shade, George Courtney and Phil (K. O.) Kaplan. DeVos now is under the management of Tony Biddle, Jr., the millionaire, who is anxious to see him get the title shot which his record entitles him, and he will have the astute Jimmy Bronson in his corner.

ANOTHER foreign fighter who is a menace in the championship ranks is Spider Pladner, the little French flyweight, who has just defeated Ernie Jarvis, the Englishman, after having taken the measure of Cor

Skill in Giving Needed, Bequests Not Wisest Form

—By B. C. FORBES—

A MULTI-MILLIONAIRE who operates quite extensively in the stock market confides to me that his aim is to give away every dollar of profit he makes.

His profits have already reached millions—and he has already made gifts of millions, although only a part of his benefactions has become known. Within the next few months other large donations for charitable purposes will come to the surface.

How many other market operators take such a generous attitude?

"I NEVER could see why any rich man should receive credit for giving money to charity after he dies," he remarked. "If he holds on to it until he dies—and he certainly can't take it with him—why should he be lauded? Of course, to leave money for worthy purposes is better than not leaving any except for selfish ends; but it doesn't strike me as the best way to handle money.

A real man, interested in his fellow-beings, should get a lot of kick out of doing worthwhile things while he is alive. Not only that, but if he is a business man who had capacity enough to make a lot of money, the chances are that he could use his brains advantageously in guiding the spending of the money."

THEN he added this, which I should interest more than men already wealthy:

"Some of the comment that greeted one of my first rather large publicly-announced gifts amused me. It seemed to cause some astonishment, first, that I should give away such an amount, and, second, that the purpose was so sensible. The fact is that I have always given away money since I first began to have any to spare.

"You have to learn how to give just as you have to learn how to make money. That is why it is important, as I see it, that men who are making headway in the world should realize early that the best plan is to start giving as soon as there is any surplus available for giving.

"You learn by practice. If you begin early to give, and increase the amounts as fortune favors you, you are not likely to make bad blunders when you have large sums to spare."

HIS next observation was almost identical with one a relatively poor man made to me several months ago:

"Somehow, I've noticed that every time I increase my giving something happens that more than makes up for it."

"A case of casting bread upon the waters?" I opined.

"Make your own interpretation of the fact—for it is a fact," was all he would say.

NOT all rich men, by any means, take an active interest in the stock market. Some of them invest only lightly in stocks and mainly in real estate or bonds.

Judge Gary's name was never identified with stock operations. Whenever I tried to sound him out on the outlook for the market, he always indicated that he paid scant attention to it and therefore had formed no judgment on its prospects. As a rule, however, he was not averse to declaring his faith in the securities of his own U. S. Steel Corporation.

The fact, however, that when he died—leaving much less than generally expected, $13,000,000—he held only a relatively small amount of Steel stock, rather suggests that he, like the heads of many another concern, felt that the shares had been carried during the long Bull movement to unwarranted heights for the time being.

IN his heyday John D. Rockefeller was credited with being a lively market operator. Once I raised the subject, but what Mr. Rockefeller said was: "One or two of my associates, especially Mr. Rogers, sometimes did things in the stock market on a much larger scale than was comfortable for me, because the newspapers, knowing that the dealings emanated from 26 Broadway, attributed them to me. I had no hand whatsoever in them."

IT may interest ordinary dabblers to know that rich men are very often most unfortunate in their speculative ventures. The list may be added to before many more moons come and wane.

Loan Cut Boosts Stocks

WESTINGHOUSE STOCK TO LIFT FUNDED DEBT

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has completed plans for the retirement of its entire funded debt through the sale of additional common stock to present shareholders.

The outstanding $30,000,000 of 5 per cent gold bonds maturing September 1, 1946, will be called for redemption at 105 and accrued interest on March 1, 1929.

TO PROVIDE the necessary funds, the holders of both common and preferred stock will be offered rights to purchase additional common stock at $105 a share. Holders of each eight shares will be entitled to subscribe for one additional share by February 5. The stock will sell ex-rights on January 7.

Based on the market price of 138, at which Westinghouse Electric common closed yesterday, the rights would have a value of about 3⅝.

The offering has been underwritten by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the Chase Securities Corporation.

THE sale of additional stock will result in the issuance of 296,252 shares of new common stock, making the total outstanding 2,586,341 shares. The offering will yield the company about $31,106,460. Since Westinghouse common is a $50 par stock, about half of this amount will be added to surplus before the close of the fiscal year on March 31.

The retirement of the bonds will eliminate fixed interest charges of $1,500,000 a year. At the present dividend rate of $4 the annual dividend requirements will be increased by $1,185,008, so that the equity of the stock is substantially increased.

AFTER the issuance of the new stock the total annual dividend requirements on the combined common and preferred stock will be $10,665,260. The preferred shares equally with common after each has received annual dividends of $3.50 a share.

Recent earnings have been exceeding dividend requirements by a wide margin. In the six months ended September 30, net profit after taxes, depreciation and interest was $10,207,728, which was equivalent to $4.30 a share on the combined stocks. Thus dividend requirements for an entire year were more than earned in six months.

THE quarter ending December 31 has been a good one. Earnings for the nine months after taxes and depreciation, but before deducting the interest charges which will be eliminated by the financing, have been officially estimated at $18,000,000. On the new capitalization this would be equivalent to $6.70 a share.

The bonds have been selling for several points less than the call price, so that it is quite likely that the company has been buying them in for some time. This will tend to reduce fixed charges for the final half of the fiscal year.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC has shown a remarkable stability in earning power during recent years. It has also been turning a large share of profits back into the business.

In the year ended March 31, 1928, net income was $15,639,172, or $6.59 a share. This compared with $16,138,441, or $6.80 a share, in the previous year.

After paying $9,476,048 in dividends in each of the years, over $6,000,000 was added to surplus. At the end of the last fiscal year the surplus account had risen to $56,932,198, or about one-fourth of the total assets.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The raw sugar market was quiet early today. No sales were reported and prices were unchanged at 4.58c for spots, nearby positions. Offerings were more liberal, with all kinds of new crop Cubas available for January shipment.

Increased offerings in the spot market and cables from Cuba declaring that President Machado had signed a decree removing all restrictions on the coming crop and that no more sugar would be tendered the export commission, had a depressing effect in raw sugar futures. There were also 100 January notices issued and this caused considerable liquidation, particularly in the near months. Houses with trade and European connections were selling the later deliveries. After opening unchanged to 5 points lower, prices showed further declines at midday were 2 to 5 points below the previous close. The market for refined was unchanged at 5.25c for fine granulated, with only a light hand-to-mouth inquiry reported.

What's on the Air

By DARREL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

A 60-MINUTE "Carnival of the Air," presented by the National Broadcasting Company over its entire network of stations, is the big feature on the radio tonight. Stations KDKA and WCAE will relay the program in Pittsburgh at 10:30 o'clock.

M. H. Aylesworth, president of the NBC, will give a report of the activities of the company. It will be his first radio appearance since the inaugural program of the NBC from the Waldorf-Astoria on the night of November 15, 1926, when Mr. Aylesworth said:

"Our 'opening night' program is intended not only to mark the formal entry of the National Broadcasting Company into the field, but to present to the radio audience a glimpse of the goal we will strive to reach in the presentation of programs under our supervision. We hope that tonight proves to be educational as well as entertaining, as it is our earnest desire to evolve programs containing both of these essential factors."

That was two years ago.

GALAXY OF STARS

Tonight Mr. Aylesworth will come before the radio audience for vindication of his claims. And he has spared no effort in making tonight's program one long to be remembered.

Participating in the musical portion of the program will be the NBC Symphonic Ensemble, including former members of the New York Symphony and soloists from other great orchestras; the Russian Symphonic Choir; the Revelers and National Cavaliers; Vaughn de Leath and Jessica Dragonette; Hugo Mariani and his Mediterraneans; Caroline Andrews, known to listeners as "The Lark"; the Sixteen Singers, a mixed chorus under George Dilworth, Merton Downey, Phil Cook, Gladys Rice and Harold "Scrappy" Lambert.

The program opens with classical features—a concert Funeral March by Grieg, as radio's farewell to the passing year, and a New Year's chorus written by the founder of the New York Symphony Dr. Leopold Damrosch. There will be also the Bach cantata, "All They From Saba Shall Come," for mixed chorus and orchestra.

Mr. Aylesworth will speak midway through the program, followed immediately by a popular revue of nationally-famous radio celebrities.

John Phillips Sousa will be heard over WCAE at 9:31 tonight in the Victor musical contest.

Old circus men who have had vast experience in the menagerie top are unanimous that, contrary to popular opinion animals possess the same traits as human beings. Bob Sherwood, former clown of P. T. Barnum's show, has some great yarns, showing instances of love, jealousy and even humor among animals, to prove this contention. The musical program:

BUGS BAER Says

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

After driving it around the town pump it developed axle canaries, transmission twitterings and a body squeak like an old accordion.

She trundled it back to the dealer and offered to trade it in for a one-passenger radio set.

The dealer was wearing a high hat like a country stove-pipe. He put the double chill on her.

She got a severe attack of revenge and decorated the car with festoons of lemons and mistletoe.

Then she parked the car outside of the dealer's garage. Which was all right because there is no law against parking.

Provided you can find the space.

On the car was a big sign, "My $2,000 lemon."

For that price it should have been a grapefruit.

The dealer asked the police to compel the beautiful grouch to unpark herself.

She defied the police, the firemen and subsidiary organizations.

The dealer appealed to a judge and the magistrate asked the dealer where the lady was parking.

The dealer showed him the spot and the judge stole the parking space.

In the meantime the fair individual continues to drive her car past the dealer's garage with the lemon placard taking the place of her 1929 license plates.

The only way to stop her is to give her the $2,000 back. If we were that dealer we would give her $4,000 and ask her to stay away twice as much.

The worst publicity in this brace of hemispheres is a satisfied customer who is satisfied that the dealer is a bum.

OH, NOTHING MUCH! I MERELY GOT A LETTER FROM MY LAWYER SAYING HE HAD SETTLED UP THAT AUTO ACCIDENT WHERE THE MILLIONAIRE KNOCKED ME SILLY.
SETTLED! DO YOU MEAN TO TELL ME THAT MAN IS GOING TO PAY YOU SOMETHING!
HE'S ALREADY PAID $500 OR $1000, OR SOME AMOUNT LIKE THAT. WELL HE GOT A THRILL FOR HIS MONEY AND I GOT SOMETHING FOR THE PERMANENT WAVE HE PUT IN MY NERVOUS SYSTEM, SO WE'RE BOTH HAPPY.
$1000! HEAVENLY DAYS! HOW DO YOU KNOW YOU'LL GET THAT LARGE AMOUNT OF MONEY FOR JUST BEING BUMPED A LITTLE BY AN AUTO?
WELL, I FEEL IN MY BONES THAT I'LL GET THAT MUCH. MY WORD YOU DON'T THINK AN AFFAIR WHERE I MIGHT HAVE BEEN CRIPPLED FOR LIFE CAN BE SETTLED FOR A HOT DOG SANDWICH DO YOU? I KNOW POSITIVELY THAT THE AMOUNT ISN'T A CENT LESS THAN $500 OR SO!
$500 FOR LOSING A HAT THAT DIDN'T COST OVER $3 WHEN IT WAS NEW YEARS AGO?
WELL TO AVOID ARGUING LET'S SAY IT'S ONLY $200. MYSTERY STORY
The Strange Case of Sir Bottisford Beale

The inspector noticed what seemed to be four sticks of dynamite in the stranger's pocket.

A lapse of time is here necessary. Just how long it will be is a matter of conjecture—as is the whole case, for that matter. Suffice it to say that authorities disagree.

But there can be no difference of opinion on one point—and that is this. Or this is that, rather. Old Bottisford Beale kicked and fought when the Scotland Yard operatives tried to wrench from his grasp the deadly all-day sucker.

There he was, on the floor of his club—pop-eyed, so to speak, and actually curling up. Ogle, the Inspector, pleaded in a kindly manner—at first. Then he lost his patience and gave Sir Bottisford a brisk kick. But the old fool kept the all-day sucker in his mouth until—

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT Power for All Purposes at Remarkably Low Cost

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

KEEP PITTSBURGH'S STREETS CLEAN!

One Effective Method to Fight Disease Epidemics

THE answer to Pittsburgh's influenza and pneumonia puzzle may be in DIRTY STREETS.

There is no excuse for not keeping clean the thoroughfares of this community. Plenty of water in the rivers; our streets are well sewered; a thousand hills will accelerate the flushing and cleansing of refuse and debris.

IN Wilkinsburg the Woman's Civic Club is engaged in a campaign of dirt chasing. It were well for the health of Pittsburgh that their example be followed in the city. Wilkinsburg's Council, merchants and schools are being urged to unite to keep the streets clean. They would not need to bring about a great improvement to emphasize the difference between the streets there and in Pittsburgh, since those here are shameful in the matter of cleanliness.

AND this is not a mere esthetic point. Just now we are having an unusual amount of sickness and health authorities are at loss to know the reason why Pittsburgh—with its wonderful salubrious climate—is more susceptible to pneumonia than other cities of similar population. Dirty streets may not hold the solution of the riddle, but if street dirt is a potent aid of disease (and who can doubt it?) it certainly gets plenty of encouragement here.

THE writer of this editorial has just returned from a little walk in the vicinity of the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, by way of Webster avenue and Grant street to Fifth avenue, and during that time saw enough dirt and litter in the streets to warrant the assumption that they seldom had been cleaned.

In the safety zone near the beautiful Union Trust Building, one of the finest structures in the world, where no passing automobile can wear off the dirt, there was plenty of it. Also along the curb in that locality. Elsewhere, too, conditions were bad, but especially so wherever people must wade through the muck to board street cars.

THE stroll also developed much evidence of carelessness by the public. Some goods had been unloaded at the curb by a merchant. Litter was being swept into the street—Grant street, not far from Fifth avenue. The centers of the streets are not so bad, not through any effort to keep them clean, but because the dirt is constantly being worn away by passing vehicles. The illustration of the safety zone is sufficient proof of that.

PITTSBURGH OUGHT TO BE ASHAMED OF ITS DIRTY STREETS AND OF THE LACK OF NEATNESS THAT CONTRIBUTES TO THE CONDITION. WE NEED AN AWAKENING SUCH AS THE WILKINSBURG WOMEN ARE TRYING TO BRING ABOUT THERE. ALSO WE NEED SOME VIGOROUS ADMINISTRATION ON THE PART OF CITY EXECUTIVES.

'Pittsburgh Boulder Dam' A Project to Strive For Flood Control Coupled With Hydro-Electric Possibilities.

Fruits, in the form of effective flood control and immense possibilities in hydro-electric development, begin to take form in the bud of a project long nurtured by the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh. Government surveys and a report thereon, made in compliance with a bill introduced by Congressman Stephen G. Porter, at the request of the Flood Commission, will be available for examination soon, when it is submitted to Congress.

In a letter to George S. Davison, president of the Flood Commission, Representative Porter states he understands the government estimates the cost of flood control here at $80,000,000 and he compares it with $340,000,000 authorized by Congress for the construction of Boulder Dam.

The pending report views the situation from the angle of flood control, but government engineers, under the provisions of another act, also are considering the money benefit in the hydro-electric possibilities. In the matter of flood control the estimated cost of $80,000,000 is felt to be fully warranted in the saving that will result through elimination of great periodical damage from high water, the benefit to navigation and the increase in available water supply for manufacturing and domestic purposes.

Mr. Porter, commenting on both flood control and power development features, states, "the two together will in all probability indicate sufficiently large benefits to warrant undertaking the construction of these reservoirs."

If Mr. Porter, who is right on the ground where such projects must fight their way through extremely hostile opposition, feels so optimistic about the outcome, we are warranted in having great confidence also. But we can't rest with that.

It is up to us to bring it to a REALITY. To that end the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pledges its support, not only because river development is one of the planks in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph platform, but because the immense benefits foreseen will help everybody in Pittsburgh and in the towns along the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio in three states.

We sought only to have the rivers impounded so they would not sweep away hundreds of thousands of our dollars every time they brawled—and that frequently has been twice or more a year—and we find that much more than that is a possibility. We visioned a co-relative benefit in having water available to maintain the rivers at a navigable stage in dry seasons, but power development was held to be only a remote possibility.

Now we accept that, too, as a goal to STRIVE for.

Yet we must not forget our original intent and aim—flood control. We know the Flood Commission needs no urging to remain on the job. But we know, too, that it can be greatly heartened in its work for Pittsburgh if it shall have the support of a public determined to carry on.

Hence, this publication calls for that united support in the same measure that it pledges its own.

Telephone No Joke When It Spends Six Millions

Something has happened to make us think of the telephone in other terms besides those associated with "wrong number" and other alleged annoyances, which, by the way, are exceptional rather than general. The message over the telephone that now gives us reason to pause in our jests about it is that $6,000,000 is to be spent in its behalf here in 1929.

"Wrong number" jibes, we know, are mostly jokes, but $6,000,000 is no joke. If you think it is, try to visualize the number of pay envelopes that will be required to take care of it in the space of a year. Then you may have some realization of the size of the telephone as an industry as well as a modern convenience that is one of our most useful and most constantly employed servants.

This six million is part of $35,000,000 appropriated for the entire state, about 17 per cent of the total. It will be expended for central office expansion, line equipment and extension and new building construction which will affect a number of exchanges.

We are glad to call attention to the industrial and com- importance of an organization that is going to spend six with us in a year.

Tales That Are Told

His Advice

Immediately the local paper sent up a young man to interview him.

"Rest," said Morgan Melton.

"What exactly do you mean by rest?"

"Rest," said Morgan Melton.

"If you see any other financiers in this country, what will you discuss?"

"Rest."

"One question more. What is your advice for young men in my position?"

"Rest, young man—rest! And by all means begin at once!"

Seeing the Bright Side

IT WAS a dark night. Murky clouds obscured the moon in such a way as to make driving dangerous in the uncertain light.

The car was approaching a level-crossing fairly swiftly when suddenly the gates began to close.

With a loud crash the car struck the last coach of the passing train and crumpled up on the rails.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

HOUSE parties are good places to start mystery stories. Nearly all detective yarns start with a house party. Well, here's one. After it had been going on four days, the little boy that was the son of the host and hostess was setting on the lap of the prettiest girl in the party. Dad and Mother both agreed he should get down and not bother Miss Jones. So Bobby was a little mad, but he kissed Miss Jones and says: "Say, why is it you don't mind if I kiss you, and you hit Daddy so hard last night when he did it?"

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

THE reducing fever has led women to this diet, which they tell me is successful, even if it isn't particularly satisfying. One hard boiled egg and one fresh tomato three times a day. It takes off a pound a day, so they tell me, and I asked a doctor and he pronounced it good.

"Oh, but, do I get sick of it!" exclaimed a lady who says she has decided now to lose only two pounds a week and eat that way two days each week. They say it works when you merely set aside a few days for that strange diet. There is something about the tomato and the hard boiled egg that is fat-fighting.

"The only way to be happy," says Nellie, the black cook, "is to be forever courtin'. If I had my life to live over again I'd just keep 'em courtin' me all the while and never marry nobody."

Nellie has had three husbands.

A New York wife gave her husband to wife No. 2, withdrew her bigamy charges, and hoped he would treat her better than he treated the donor of this strange gift.

Doesn't look like such a glad year for No. 2, somehow. If anything would jolt a woman out of her somnambulistic state, a remark like that from No. 1 ought to do it.

The best bet I've seen for a wife, one guaranteed not to argue, is one of those girls who occupy the little coops at the entrances of the big department stores. Have you ever watched one of them wilt along toward evening, after answering all day, as fast as she can say the words, 1,456,799,344 questions? Her idea of Heaven would be a place where there was quiet, and no questions asked.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

"WHY didn't you stop when I rang?" she snapped, her little eyes red above her fat, mottled cheeks.

"I did, ma'am," said the conductor calmly, while the trolley car audience wagged its collective ear.

"You didn't either! I rang a whole block back. Why didn't you stop then?"

"I didn't hear you, ma'am."

"You mustuv' I rang perfectly plain. Anyone coulduv heard me—"

"Well, if you're so anxious to get off why don't you get off? The car's stopped now—" The conductor was beginning to fling a mean adverb himself.

The lady glared, snorted and prepared to descend the steps. "How dare you talk to me like that! You'll hear of this. What's your number? You conductors think that passengers have no rights. Well, I'll show you. I'll show you you can't bully helpless women—"

"Aw, can it!" yelled the conductor, and the car shot away, leaving the lady struggling with a well-developed case of apoplexy.

Rude?

Yes, of course, he was rude to her. And I haven't a doubt that he was hauled on the carpet and fined for his outrageous treatment of American womanhood. But personally my own regret is that he wasn't ruder.

Since the day of her birth that female had been accumulating a grouch. She had made life miserable for heaven knows how many miserable relations, acquaintances and defenseless servants and clerks. What she needed, above all things, was a good sock on the jaw. But she'll probably never get it, worse luck, because we have so many laws which make the world safe for cross people.

Snapping at the hairdresser—
Quarreling with the waiter—
Crabbing at the elevator boy—
Nagging the stenog—
Raising Cain generally—
Provocation?

Yes, of course, they have provocation—provocation for the ordinary amount of irritation which we must all feel in a crowded, bothersome world. But why should they ramp all over the scenery just because they're a bit put out?

AND WHY SHOULD WAGE EARNERS AND PUBLIC SERVITORS BE COMPELLED TO STAND THEIR INSULTS SIMPLY BECAUSE THEY ARE PAID WORKERS?

If we are to have strange and unfeeling amendments tacked on to our Constitution why not have one which would legalize the throwing of custard pies at all grouches?

Take it from me, partner, I'd like to be the Voistead that would father that particular act. I'll bet it would be good for a seat in Congress.

Bible Passages

"An Eye for an Eye"

(Matthew 5; 38-48)

YE have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth:

But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloke also.

Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.

Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love they neighbour, and hate thine enemy.

But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you;

That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.

For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same?

And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others? do not even the publicans so?

The Rhyming Optimist

Conscience

WHATEVER name men call it by,
There is an inner voice
Whose truth no being can deny,
And all who heed, rejoice.

The majesty of its commands
Surpasses that of kings
Of other days in other lands,
Whose ancient might Earth sings.

To hearts obedient, its notes
Are soft as Summer breeze;
Wrong hears it like the thousand throats
That roar through raging seas.

It moves the mildest to defy
The greatest tyrant's power;
On listening souls its blessings lie
As lightly as a flower.

A rustle in the grass.
But lives that capture its delight
Find bliss that does not pass.

The Eternal Mutiny

By Herbert Kaufman

NURSERY yarns tell us how the other parts of the body once decided to boycott the belly.

"We're sick of doing all the work and getting nothing for it," they grumbled. "Hereafter we'll not sweat and toil for a lazy glutton who gobbles the entire fruit of our effort."

Whereupon the eye refused to locate food, the limbs declined to till and fetch—even teeth and gullet joined the strike against "that greedy profiteer."

But pretty soon mutinous members and senses found their own strength sapping away and realized, in ostracizing the stomach, that they were planning to commit suicide.

Later on, the working folk of Rome decided that capitalists and distributors were a parasite class, moved to a hilltop of their own and organized a separate community from which the "White Toga" element was strictly excluded.

Patient statesmanship first let them flounder in the muddles to which inexperienced management promptly brought them, and then used Aesop's apt fable, to show how no one section of the body politic can succeed or survive without the assistance and co-operation of the rest.

All of which foregoing was, long ago, handily crowded into a single phrase and blazoned on the shield of America: "United we stand, divided we fall."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Thoughts while strolling: Max Steur, the great criminal lawyer, who might be taken for a leading grocer in Galesburg, Ill. A famous toe dancer stumbles. And blushes furiously. Those dried-up little old men with red honor ribbons in lapels. The kind who like to do an old-fashioned waltz.

Bruce Barton, a Robbins, Tenn., boy, who made good in the city. Angry motorists to fluttering pedestrian: "Make up your mind within the week." Women with the despairing look of those entertaining out-of-town visitors. The seedy backwashes from Brummell with puff ties and gray derbies.

Sign on loaded dice in a magic window: "Fool your friends." Yes, and probably get shot. A hotel featuring a Maitre de Beaute. Ben Ali Haggin, who looks like my boyish idea of a city slicker. And his young bride. The swoop and whirr of midtown pigeons. Gertrude Atherton.

Wonder what those burlesque ladies who thought it naughty to exit with a wink and back kick think of naked revues? Those tall, mysterious women with long jade eardrops, a dark Oriental makeup and I-can-be-bad walk. The whinnying, forced laugh of those who listen to a policeman's joke.

The West Forty-second street panorama—flea circuses, five-cent book shops, Army and Navy stores, cubicle ticket agencies, a dozen theaters to the block, furtive sidewalk speculators, and George White and his midget bow tie. The din of dishes and babel of tongues.

Delivery wagons in the modernistic manner. Wish somebody would hand George Jessell the address of a good barber. On second thought—never mind. A School of Eating. I know a lot of dandy addresses for swell pupils. Clap hands, here comes the musical comedy juvenile who wears ribbon bows for cuff links.

Beggars who sit dejectedly on elevator stairs. Fly-by-night stores, with silk-shirted, bediamoned proprietors. Those recherche—wonder if that's right—French cafes where the uniformed chef greets you. Street fiddlers, dance hall pianos, the medley from radio shops, hurdy gurdies—I want Heifetz!

A distinct metropolitan monotype is the fellow who buttonholes you to relate an inane, pointless story merely to drag in by the heels the name of some celebrity with whom he dined the night before. Sometimes I think a small town has the right attitude toward celebrities. Its attitude is—yeah! And with a distinct drawl.

There is a man who has been conducting a small enterprise successfully until recently. Business suddenly slumped and he experimented with many schemes. Three months ago he placed a huge sign over his doors which read: "Acme Operated" not exactly that but near enough. He decorated his stationery with the same announcement and sent out thousands of glowing circulars to former customers that his business was now "Acme Operated." Trade began immediately to pick up and today it is flourishing more than ever. "Acme Operated," like the little white panties they put on fried chicken legs, means nothing. The business is conducted exactly as it has been during all its years of existence. And as one who recently asked for Mr. Dunhill in the swank tobacco shop, it somehow tickles me pink.

Dance knowitalls declare young Buster West is one of the best—if not the very best—of the acrobatic dancers. His dad is an old-time vaudeville "piff-awmer" and the youngster came out of that field to have his name hung up in Broadway lights. He is in his early twenties, a sensitive blonde type, and could give a lot of far less talented performers a grand lesson in modesty.

From a men's tailoring ad: "Can you possibly think of anything so fascinating as being pointed out as the best dressed man in a crowded room?"

The riddle of the ages never will be solved as long as the women have their way about it.
